Tanker Plane Hits Houses; 4 Crewmen, 2 Babies Killed

Craft Smashes Truck And Two Norfolk Homes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A Navy tanker plane attempting an emergency landing smashed two houses Tuesday. Its four-man crew and two babies in one of the homes perished in the wash of flames from the fuel filled tanker.

Two other persons suffered burns and shock.

One of these is Mrs. Joseph E. Tondora, mother of the two babies. She was taken to a naval hospital. Her husband, a Navy lieutenant, is at sea.

Also burned was Charles Sheppard Jr., driver of a potato-laden trailer-truck struck by the plane as it bounced across the 8900 block of Granby street, in a residential area near the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

No one was at home in the other residence. Its owner, William H. Poore, was in a hospital; his wife was at work, and their two children were in school.

Plane Develops Engine Trouble

The North American AJ2 twin-engine plane had taken off from the Norfolk Naval Air Station less than 30 minutes earlier on a refueling mission. It turned back from its position over Chesapeake Bay because of engine trouble, a Navy spokesman reported.

The plane reported its trouble to the control tower when it was three miles from the station at 8,000 feet. The plane was cleared for an emergency landing. As it made a left turn in the traffic pattern, its left engine lost power completely and the plane went into a spin.

It clipped tree tops and the roof of a house on the east side of Granby street, tore into the trailer-truck and sliced the trailer in two, then bounced and slid into the two houses on the west side of the street.

Its nose section ripped into the Tondora home and its tail section into the Poore home.

There was nothing left but the charred outside wall of both homes.

Mother Restrained

Mrs. Tondora ran from her residence when the plane struck and then made a desperate attempt to re-enter. Neighbors found her crying "My babies, my babies" and had to restrain her from running into the flaming home.

Burned to death in the home were Joseph Tondora Jr., 14 months and Michalene Tondora, two weeks. A third child, Barbara, was in school.

Crewmen killed were identified by the Navy as Lt. Cmdr. George Wilson, 38, the pilot, Norfolk; Ens. Fred M. Clancy III, 20, copilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Clancy Jr. Kissimmee, Fla.; Airman Patrick F. Toomey, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Toomey, Durham, N.C., and Aviation Mechanic 3.C. John E. Delaney, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Delaney, Chelsea, Mass.

Three Children Hurt When Trains Brush

NEW YORK (AP) — Three school children were injured, none seriously, Tuesday when a passenger train car carrying 45 of them was brushed by a freight train in the Bronx.

The children were aboard a five-car local which had left Grand Central terminal earlier for Croton, N. Y. The ninth car of the freight, going in the opposite direction on a curve, brushed against the third and fourth cars of the passenger train, police said.

Tighter Wheat Controls Urged By Farm Group

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — Platform drafters at the convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation propose greatly tightened federal controls on wheat long enough to rid the nation of a big, price-depressing surplus of this grain.

Such controls would be accompanied by downward adjustments in government price supports — designed to help discourage over production and to building larger markets.

But once surpluses were disposed of, all controls would be eliminated, giving growers complete freedom. Price supports would be put at an unspecified percentage of the average market price during the three preceding years. They now are fixed by a legal formula.

These proposals were laid before the full convention Tuesday by its resolutions committee. Floor action was expected either Wednesday or Thursday.

The committee said that it should be the desire of the farm organization to eliminate government regulation of farm output—first started in the early 30s. But in the case of some crops—particularly those in surplus supply — it is advisable, the group said, to maintain allotments and quotas for a transitional period.

These proposals were expected to be in line with farm program revisions President Eisenhower is expected to recommend to the new Congress.

In a convention speech, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of Nationalist China's president, called upon Western powers to stand firm against Communists in Asia.

Khrushchev Put On Mineral Water "Diet" By Doctor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Tuesday that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, denizen of the cocktail circuit, is under doctors' orders to drink mineral water instead of vodka because of a kidney ailment.

Humphrey said Khrushchev mentioned two or three times during their recent eight-hour talk in the Kremlin that he was receiving treatment for kidney trouble.

Nevertheless, he described the premier as "very robust and clear eyed."

N.Y. Papers Hit By New Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper deliverymen Tuesday night rejected a tentative contract with New York's nine major daily newspapers. The union ordered an immediate strike.

The deliverymen had struck for eight hours Monday before the tentative settlement was hammered out, but that walkout was too short to affect newspaper deliveries.

Immediately affected by the new strike were Manhattan's four morning papers: The Times, Herald Tribune, News and Mirror.

The afternoon papers, the Post, Journal-American, World - Telegram and Sun and two Queens dailies, the Long Island Daily Press and the Long Island Star Journal also are involved.

The deliverers rejected the contract by a close vote of 877 to 772. Some 2,000 deliverymen are directly involved in the dispute, but the entire 4,500 membership of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union here was entitled to vote.

Nearly Million Collected By 13 In Check Racket

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirteen persons collected nearly a million dollars from a suburban bank because, a prosecutor said Tuesday, a "good guy" official concealed bad checks for friends. The official apparently was one of those who profited, U.S. Atty. Laughlin Waters said.

One depositor is accused of having cashed checks totaling $296,067 on an account containing $131. Another allegedly collected $129,465 with 301 checks on an account overdrawn $43.50.

FBI agents arrested 10 persons Monday, including the president and two other officials of the former Sun Valley National Bank. Two other persons were surrendered by an attorney.

The 12, mostly businessmen, were arraigned on a charge of aiding and abetting John Petersen, 49, mild-mannered former vice president and cashier, in allegedly misapplying funds of the bank.

Petersen was arrested last week on a charge of making a false bank record entry.

"Without excusing Petersen, I'd say he was a victim of circumstances," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan. "He began by covering up for friends who wrote checks they couldn't cover.

"When others learned he was being a 'good guy' to his friends they demanded he hold checks for them, too, and before long he was enmeshed in an avalanche of uncovered checks.

"By the time the FBI caught up with the situation, more than 3,000 checks had been covered that way."

A reporter asked why bank examiners failed to discover the practice sooner.

"Only a 100 per cent audit could detect a situation like that," Sheridan said. "The examiners were in the bank shortly before Petersen's arrest. They found something then that made them suspicious. They notified the FBI, which sent a team of accountants who made the 100 per cent audit and reported the shortage to the U.S. attorney's office."

Gift-Giver Goldfine Under Indictment For Contempt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Boston gift-giver Bernard Goldfine, sometimes accused of talking too much, was indicted by a fast-moving federal grand jury Tuesday for refusing to tell House investigators enough about his intricate financial deals.

The contempt of Congress indictment charged the wealthy industrialist, a friend of former Presidential Aide Sherman Adams, balked at answering 18 "pertinent" questions thrown at him by the House subcommittee on legislative oversight.

The questions, involving Goldfine's Boston Port Development Co., were posed by the subcommittee during its hearings last July into the financier's troubles with federal regulatory agencies and his gifts to Adams.

Goldfine, who was freed on $1,000 bond pending arraignment Friday, faces a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine for each of the 18 counts. However, sentences in such cases usually run concurrently—one year and $1,000.

Furthermore, U.S. Attorney Oliver Gasch has said it would take at least two years to prosecute the case if Goldfine fights back hard. Goldfine and his battery of lawyers have made clear they would.

The Goldfine investigation rocked the Eisenhower administration and eventually forced Adams' resignation after it was disclosed the presidential assistant had accepted gifts, including a vicuna coat, from Goldfine and let him pay his hotel bills.

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Police used tear gas Tuesday night to disperse crowds of more than 16,000 persons that gathered in Caracas following a threat by the government junta to suspend constitutional guarantees to meet the threat of new post - election rioting.

Police said 32 persons were arrested Tuesday night, the second night of demonstrations protesting the election of Romulo Betancourt as president of Venezuela.

Security Council Approves Guinea's Application 10-0

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Security Council Tuesday approved and sent to the General Assembly the bid of the tiny African state of Guinea to become the 82nd member of the United Nations.

The General Assembly will act on Guinea's application Friday.

The United States tried to get South Korea and South Viet Nam into the world parliament too but the Soviet Union used its 86th and 87th vetoes to kill the move.

On the South Korean application, Iraq abstained. On the South Viet Nam application, Iraq and Canada abstained. Other council members favored admission of both countries.

Russian Move Fails

Russia tried to tag an amendment on the resolution on South Korea that would recommend membership for North Korea also. The Security Council voted this down, 8-1, with Sweden and Iraq abstaining.

The Security Council voted 10-0 with France abstaining to recommend that Guinea be admitted to the United Nations. The General Assembly probably will complete approval by Friday or Saturday.

French Ambassador Guillaume Georges-Picot said France considered the application for U.N. membership premature because Guinea's status with France, and the status of its recently-announced federation with Ghana, had not yet been defined.

France Could Have Used Veto

"If they (Guinea and Ghana) create a union, then it is that union that must be seated in the United Nations," said Georges-Picot.

Nevertheless, France abstained in the voting although as one of the five permanent members of the Security Council it could have cast a veto.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the council the United States was happy to welcome Guinea into the United Nations and appreciated France's work in guiding Guinea to independence.

Bombing Case Mistrial Seen

ATLANTA (UPI)—The jury deciding the fate of accused Atlanta Jewish Temple bomber George Bright recessed Tuesday night after putting in nearly 21 hours of deliberations since Saturday night.

The 12-man jury has been deadlocked regarding the case of Bright, the first of five defendants charged in the Oct. 12 Temple bombing, and a mistrial is indicated.

The jurors will resume deliberations at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Judge Durwood T. Pye had ordered the panel to remain in session until 10 p.m. but released it 1½ hours early after its foreman reported the jurors were tired and wanted to catch up on their sleep.

When the jury reconvenes, it will work toward three alternative verdicts: acquittal, life imprisonment or death.

Defense attorneys, faced with a possible mistrial, announced plans to try the other four defendants sometime after the first of the year. The state agreed to allow the other four men, jailed since they were indicted Oct. 17, to go free under bond.

The Temple, on Atlanta's famous Peachtree Street, was dynamited shortly before dawn. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Two Killed, 20 Hurt In Bus-Truck Crash

BRIDGEWATER TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP)—A New York-bound bus collided with a panel truck on Route 28 Tuesday night and overturned. Police said two persons were killed outright and another 20 were injured.

Rescue workers had to burn through the side of the overturned bus to reach screaming and imprisoned passengers.

Police Sgt. Ray Kerting at nearby Somerville said the bus was operated by Trailways Bus Co. The injured were taken to Somerville Hospital in five ambulances.

'Super Range' ICBM Claimed By Khrushchev

Senate Sources Tell Of Premier's 'Secret' Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was reported Tuesday to have told Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) that Russia has an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of firing a warhead 8,694 miles.

Achievement of such a range would surpass the best U.S. ICBM effort so far—the Atlas which the Air Force hurled 6,325 miles on Nov. 28. It also would put almost all the United States within reach of Soviet weapons.

Senate sources told of Khrushchev's "secret" message to Humphrey. The Minnesota senator himself declined to give details of his 80-minute briefing of President Eisenhower on his long face-to-face talk with Khrushchev.

Checked For Propaganda

Humphrey told reporters he passed on to Eisenhower a confidential message from the Soviet Premier dealing with Russian nuclear explosions of a very substantial size. He also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the missile field, the senator said.

He said the administration would have to decide whether to make public the information he relayed from the Soviet Premier to Eisenhower. The White House said it would not do so if it contained too much Soviet propaganda.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty stuck by that stand after Senate sources reported what Humphrey told Eisenhower about missiles. Hagerty said the government would have to evaluate the information before deciding.

No Comment From Pentagon

The Pentagon had no comment on the report either.

Humphrey, en route to Minneapolis, was not available to confirm or deny the accuracy of the report.

However, the version from Senate sources was similar to that given a reporter by an official in a government department. And it gibed with a report in the Dec. 15 issue of Newsweek magazine published Tuesday.

The Khrushchev "secret" dealing with nuclear explosions, according to these sources, was that Russia has developed a compact five-megaton nuclear bomb. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT. Bombs of that force are usually of the hydrogen type.

Pravda Attack Adds To Belief Serov Demoted

LONDON (AP) — Moscow followed up the transfer of Gen. Ivan A. Serov from his job as the Soviet's top policeman with a fresh blast Tuesday at disgraced former leaders it calls the antiparty group.

Pravda recalled the downfall of a half dozen one-time strong men chased from power by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and said the Communists have consistently smashed those who "opposed the measures which had become due through the exigencies of life."

The attack by the Soviet Communist newspaper lent color to a belief growing among diplomats that Serov, wiry, 53-year-old veteran of party purges, is booked for relegation to the bleak fringes of Soviet life—if nothing worse.

The opinion was widespread that he was being kicked downstairs. One argument in support of this was the fact that, as "top cop," he could go no higher in his chosen field.

But this opinion was not unanimous.

A dispatch from Moscow said various observers in the Soviet capital believed the former chief of state security is perhaps headed for an even more important job, though there was nothing in the announcement to pinpoint it.

The announcement said Serov was being relieved "in connection with his transfer to other duties." Contrary to normal procedure, it did not name his successor.

One theory of the latest Kremlin shuffle was that Serov may have run into the peril that dogs all Soviet police chiefs when they become too strong for their masters' peace of mind.

Serov's job gave him ministerial rank and control of a powerful arm of the Soviet state. He has always been regarded as "Khrushchev's boy."

Khrushchev appeared to have relied upon his friendship after Lavrenty P. Beria, the top police head of Stalin's time, was executed in 1953.

Now, perhaps, Khrushchev found Serov in the way and so got rid of him. This would not be the first time Khrushchev has acted this way.

Town Crier's Bellow Startles New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP)—A leather-lunged town crier sounded his call above the din of Times Square Tuesday—and his bellow startled even the blase natives.

Bill Cruttenden, who holds the ancient office in Hastings, England, made his duty tour to proclaim the opening of a new office in town for the British Travel Assn.

Carrying a 300-year-old staff of office, swinging a 200-year-old bell, Bill raised his 52-year-old voice authoritatively above the noisy traffic.

Bridges Refused Nevada License To Marry Nisei

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Longshore leader Harry Bridges was refused a marriage license here Tuesday when he attempted to marry Miss Noriko Sawada, an attractive Nisei legal secretary.

The marriage license bureau, backed by the county clerk, refused to issue the license under a Nevada law prohibiting interracial marriages.

Bridges' attorney, Reno city attorney Sam Francovich, said he would ask the district court for a writ of mandamus to force issuance of the marriage license.

Bridges and Miss Sawada flew here Monday night to get married, apparently in ignorance of the Nevada law.

When informed of the law, Bridges and his bride-to-be conferred with Francovich and with Deputy District Attorney Emile Jezlin.

They then went to the marriage license bureau where they applied to Mrs. Viola Givens for the license.

Mrs. Givens asked Miss Sawada, "You're Japanese, aren't you?"

She did not answer but Bridges said:

"No. She's Nisei. She was born in the United States of America."

"Well, it isn't where you were born but your blood stream," said Mrs. Givens.

She said she would issue the license if the county clerk approved. But County Clerk Harry K. Brown told the couple he could not authorize issuance of the license.

Defiant Ala. Officials Face Legal Action

Civil Rights Agency Halts Hearing After Records Withheld

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission, with assent from Southern members, started legal action Tuesday to compel defiant public officials to produce evidence about Negro voter registration in Alabama.

In a dramatic announcement which abruptly ended a two-day hearing, the commission unanimously asked the Justice Department to seek a federal court order against registration officials who refused to testify or surrender voter records.

A spokesman for Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said in Washington the matter will be handled through Hartwell Davis, the U.S. district attorney at Montgomery. The U.S. District Court in Alabama will be asked to issue the order.

The spokesman noted that if the court order is issued and is not obeyed, a contempt situation will be presented.

Davis Preparing Petition

In Montgomery, Davis said he is working on a petition to federal court. He declined to say when it might be filed.

Six vote registrars, protesting what they called an invasion of their rights as judicial officers, declined to talk about the functions of their office when called as witnesses at the outset of the hearing Monday. Five of them refused even to testify under oath.

Another subpoenaed witness, Circuit Court Judge George C. Wallace of Clayton, Ala., didn't appear. He had been instructed to produce registration files he has subpoenaed in two of the six counties into which the civil rights agency's first public hearing extended.

In one fashion or another, state and county officials kept the voting records out of the commission's hands in all six counties.

Besides the files in Barbour and Bullock counties which Wallace had impounded, county grand juries in Dallas, Lowndes and Wilcox took custody of the records there, and the files in Macon County were seized by the state's prosecutor in that circuit, Thom F. Young.

Challenge Accepted

Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who directed the massive resistance, accepted the commission challenge.

"If they are going to attempt to try our public officials," he said, "they ought to do it in a court of law, and we will take advantage of every means we have available to represent our judicial officers and protect them from invasions by the federal government and legislative and executive branches of the government."

Patterson contended the voter registration records are confidential and that registrars themselves, as judicial officers, cannot be called to account for their official acts.

Snows, Cold Wave Claim Lives Of 16

By United Press International

A new snow storm buried Oswego, N.Y., under drifts 20 feet high Tuesday and an Arctic cold wave, more than 30 degrees below zero in the north, stretched from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Winter was still 13 days away, according to the calendar, but some cities had never before endured such such cold this early in the season or weathered such snow.

The snows and cold wave claimed at least 16 lives. Snow-slicked highways were blamed for eight traffic deaths in Illinois, two in Indiana and one in New York State. Two transients froze to death in Chicago, two men suffered fatal heart attacks shovelling snow in Iowa, and a Michigan man met the same fate.

Falls Church Rejects Moving Permit Plan

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP) — You won't need a city permit to move out of Falls Church after all.

The City Council was unanimous in rejecting a proposed ordinance which would have required just that. It had been advanced as a way to keep people from skipping town without paying their taxes.

One reason the council voted no was the fact that moving companies resisted the idea vigorously, and they had been counted on to report on people planning to move without a permit.

Soviet Vetoes Bar Viet Nam, ROK From UN

Security Council Approves Guinea's Application 10-0

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Security Council Tuesday approved and sent to the General Assembly the bid of the tiny African state of Guinea to become the 82nd member of the United Nations.

The General Assembly will act on Guinea's application Friday.

The United States tried to get South Korea and South Viet Nam into the world parliament too but the Soviet Union used its 86th and 87th vetoes to kill the move.

On the South Korean application, Iraq abstained. On the South Viet Nam application, Iraq and Canada abstained. Other council members favored admission of both countries.

Russian Move Fails

Russia tried to tag an amendment on the resolution on South Korea that would recommend membership for North Korea also. The Security Council voted this down, 8-1, with Sweden and Iraq abstaining.

The Security Council voted 10-0 with France abstaining to recommend that Guinea be admitted to the United Nations. The General Assembly probably will complete approval by Friday or Saturday.

French Ambassador Guillaume Georges-Picot said France considered the application for U.N. membership premature because Guinea's status with France, and the status of its recently-announced federation with Ghana, had not yet been defined.

France Could Have Used Veto

"If they (Guinea and Ghana) create a union, then it is that union that must be seated in the United Nations," said Georges-Picot.

Nevertheless, France abstained in the voting although as one of the five permanent members of the Security Council it could have cast a veto.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the council the United States was happy to welcome Guinea into the United Nations and appreciated France's work in guiding Guinea to independence.

Bombing Case Mistrial Seen

ATLANTA (UPI)—The jury deciding the fate of accused Atlanta Jewish Temple bomber George Bright recessed Tuesday night after putting in nearly 21 hours of deliberations since Saturday night.

The 12-man jury has been deadlocked regarding the case of Bright, the first of five defendants charged in the Oct. 12 Temple bombing, and a mistrial is indicated.

The jurors will resume deliberations at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Judge Durwood T. Pye had ordered the panel to remain in session until 10 p.m. but released it 1½ hours early after its foreman reported the jurors were tired and wanted to catch up on their sleep.

When the jury reconvenes, it will work toward three alternative verdicts: acquittal, life imprisonment or death.

Defense attorneys, faced with a possible mistrial, announced plans to try the other four defendants sometime after the first of the year. The state agreed to allow the other four men, jailed since they were indicted Oct. 17, to go free under bond.

The Temple, on Atlanta's famous Peachtree Street, was dynamited shortly before dawn. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Two Killed, 20 Hurt In Bus-Truck Crash

BRIDGEWATER TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP)—A New York-bound bus collided with a panel truck on Route 28 Tuesday night and overturned. Police said two persons were killed outright and another 20 were injured.

Rescue workers had to burn through the side of the overturned bus to reach screaming and imprisoned passengers.

Police Sgt. Ray Kerting at nearby Somerville said the bus was operated by Trailways Bus Co. The injured were taken to Somerville Hospital in five ambulances.

'Super Range' ICBM Claimed By Khrushchev

Senate Sources Tell Of Premier's 'Secret' Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was reported Tuesday to have told Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) that Russia has an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of firing a warhead 8,694 miles.

Achievement of such a range would surpass the best U.S. ICBM effort so far—the Atlas which the Air Force hurled 6,325 miles on Nov. 28. It also would put almost all the United States within reach of Soviet weapons.

Senate sources told of Khrushchev's "secret" message to Humphrey. The Minnesota senator himself declined to give details of his 80-minute briefing of President Eisenhower on his long face-to-face talk with Khrushchev.

Checked For Propaganda

Humphrey told reporters he passed on to Eisenhower a confidential message from the Soviet Premier dealing with Russian nuclear explosions of a very substantial size. He also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the missile field, the senator said.

He said the administration would have to decide whether to make public the information he relayed from the Soviet Premier to Eisenhower. The White House said it would not do so if it contained too much Soviet propaganda.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty stuck by that stand after Senate sources reported what Humphrey told Eisenhower about missiles. Hagerty said the government would have to evaluate the information before deciding.

No Comment From Pentagon

The Pentagon had no comment on the report either.

Humphrey, en route to Minneapolis, was not available to confirm or deny the accuracy of the report.

However, the version from Senate sources was similar to that given a reporter by an official in a government department. And it gibed with a report in the Dec. 15 issue of Newsweek magazine published Tuesday.

The Khrushchev "secret" dealing with nuclear explosions, according to these sources, was that Russia has developed a compact five-megaton nuclear bomb. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT. Bombs of that force are usually of the hydrogen type.

Pravda Attack Adds To Belief Serov Demoted

LONDON (AP) — Moscow followed up the transfer of Gen. Ivan A. Serov from his job as the Soviet's top policeman with a fresh blast Tuesday at disgraced former leaders it calls the antiparty group.

Pravda recalled the downfall of a half dozen one-time strong men chased from power by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and said the Communists have consistently smashed those who "opposed the measures which had become due through the exigencies of life."

The attack by the Soviet Communist newspaper lent color to a belief growing among diplomats that Serov, wiry, 53-year-old veteran of party purges, is booked for relegation to the bleak fringes of Soviet life—if nothing worse.

The opinion was widespread that he was being kicked downstairs. One argument in support of this was the fact that, as "top cop," he could go no higher in his chosen field.

But this opinion was not unanimous.

A dispatch from Moscow said various observers in the Soviet capital believed the former chief of state security is perhaps headed for an even more important job, though there was nothing in the announcement to pinpoint it.

The announcement said Serov was being relieved "in connection with his transfer to other duties." Contrary to normal procedure, it did not name his successor.

One theory of the latest Kremlin shuffle was that Serov may have run into the peril that dogs all Soviet police chiefs when they become too strong for their masters' peace of mind.

Serov's job gave him ministerial rank and control of a powerful arm of the Soviet state. He has always been regarded as "Khrushchev's boy."

Khrushchev appeared to have relied upon his friendship after Lavrenty P. Beria, the top police head of Stalin's time, was executed in 1953.

Now, perhaps, Khrushchev found Serov in the way and so got rid of him. This would not be the first time Khrushchev has acted this way.

Town Crier's Bellow Startles New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP)—A leather-lunged town crier sounded his call above the din of Times Square Tuesday—and his bellow startled even the blase natives.

Bill Cruttenden, who holds the ancient office in Hastings, England, made his duty tour to proclaim the opening of a new office in town for the British Travel Assn.

Carrying a 300-year-old staff of office, swinging a 200-year-old bell, Bill raised his 52-year-old voice authoritatively above the noisy traffic.

Bridges Refused Nevada License To Marry Nisei

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Longshore leader Harry Bridges was refused a marriage license here Tuesday when he attempted to marry Miss Noriko Sawada, an attractive Nisei legal secretary.

The marriage license bureau, backed by the county clerk, refused to issue the license under a Nevada law prohibiting interracial marriages.

Bridges' attorney, Reno city attorney Sam Francovich, said he would ask the district court for a writ of mandamus to force issuance of the marriage license.

Bridges and Miss Sawada flew here Monday night to get married, apparently in ignorance of the Nevada law.

When informed of the law, Bridges and his bride-to-be conferred with Francovich and with Deputy District Attorney Emile Jezlin.

They then went to the marriage license bureau where they applied to Mrs. Viola Givens for the license.

Mrs. Givens asked Miss Sawada, "You're Japanese, aren't you?"

She did not answer but Bridges said:

"No. She's Nisei. She was born in the United States of America."

"Well, it isn't where you were born but your blood stream," said Mrs. Givens.

She said she would issue the license if the county clerk approved. But County Clerk Harry K. Brown told the couple he could not authorize issuance of the license.

Defiant Ala. Officials Face Legal Action

Civil Rights Agency Halts Hearing After Records Withheld

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission, with assent from Southern members, started legal action Tuesday to compel defiant public officials to produce evidence about Negro voter registration in Alabama.

In a dramatic announcement which abruptly ended a two-day hearing, the commission unanimously asked the Justice Department to seek a federal court order against registration officials who refused to testify or surrender voter records.

A spokesman for Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said in Washington the matter will be handled through Hartwell Davis, the U.S. district attorney at Montgomery. The U.S. District Court in Alabama will be asked to issue the order.

The spokesman noted that if the court order is issued and is not obeyed, a contempt situation will be presented.

Davis Preparing Petition

In Montgomery, Davis said he is working on a petition to federal court. He declined to say when it might be filed.

Six vote registrars, protesting what they called an invasion of their rights as judicial officers, declined to talk about the functions of their office when called as witnesses at the outset of the hearing Monday. Five of them refused even to testify under oath.

Another subpoenaed witness, Circuit Court Judge George C. Wallace of Clayton, Ala., didn't appear. He had been instructed to produce registration files he has subpoenaed in two of the six counties into which the civil rights agency's first public hearing extended.

In one fashion or another, state and county officials kept the voting records out of the commission's hands in all six counties.

Besides the files in Barbour and Bullock counties which Wallace had impounded, county grand juries in Dallas, Lowndes and Wilcox took custody of the records there, and the files in Macon County were seized by the state's prosecutor in that circuit, Thom F. Young.

Challenge Accepted

Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who directed the massive resistance, accepted the commission challenge.

"If they are going to attempt to try our public officials," he said, "they ought to do it in a court of law, and we will take advantage of every means we have available to represent our judicial officers and protect them from invasions by the federal government and legislative and executive branches of the government."

Patterson contended the voter registration records are confidential and that registrars themselves, as judicial officers, cannot be called to account for their official acts.

Snows, Cold Wave Claim Lives Of 16

By United Press International

A new snow storm buried Oswego, N.Y., under drifts 20 feet high Tuesday and an Arctic cold wave, more than 30 degrees below zero in the north, stretched from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Winter was still 13 days away, according to the calendar, but some cities had never before endured such such cold this early in the season or weathered such snow.

The snows and cold wave claimed at least 16 lives. Snow-slicked highways were blamed for eight traffic deaths in Illinois, two in Indiana and one in New York State. Two transients froze to death in Chicago, two men suffered fatal heart attacks shovelling snow in Iowa, and a Michigan man met the same fate.

Falls Church Rejects Moving Permit Plan

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP) — You won't need a city permit to move out of Falls Church after all.

The City Council was unanimous in rejecting a proposed ordinance which would have required just that. It had been advanced as a way to keep people from skipping town without paying their taxes.

One reason the council voted no was the fact that moving companies resisted the idea vigorously, and they had been counted on to report on people planning to move without a permit.

Industry Spending On New Facilities Turns Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industry's spending on new plants and equipment has hit bottom and turned upward. But this important business barometer is rising more slowly than other major indicators.

Plans for business expansion and modernization outlays, on the basis of reports by corporations, call for a spending rate of about 30 billion dollars annually this quarter and 30½ billion dollars in the first quarter of 1959.

The recession low point, reached in the July-September quarter, entailed spending at a rate of about 29½ billion dollars a year.

That was a decline of more than eight billion dollars, or over 20 per cent, from the peak of 37¾ billion dollars a year earlier.

The figures were announced Tuesday by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Commerce Department on the basis of reports from corporations.

Industry's outlay for factories, machinery and equipment is regarded by economists as an especially significant factor in generating jobs, production and building activity.

The retrenchment in such investment last year, after an unprecedented three - year rise, marked the start of the recession.

By the same token, some Washington economists believe the slow rate of increase now scheduled will moderate the general business recovery. It is one reason they predicted 1959 will be a year of gradually rising business activity but not a boom.

Va. Operators To Appeal Md. Anti-Slot Law

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —Pier operators from the Virginia side of the Potomac River plan to take their fight against Maryland's anti-slot machine law to the U. S. Supreme Court.

F. Joseph Donohue, an attorney for the operators, said Tuesday an appeal would be filed with the court this week. He said it would contend the law violates the equal protection of the law and the due process clauses of the 14th amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

The law, passed by the 1958 session of the Maryland Legislature, bars gambling devices which can not be reached by foot from Maryland soil. It was aimed at operators who ran slot machines on piers jutting into the Maryland-owned Potomac River from the Virginia shore.

Virginia law forbids the slots, while they are legal in several Maryland counties across the river.

Some 700 slots were removed from five casinos Oct. 28, the day after Chief Justice Earl Warren rejected a plea to stay enforcement of the law until after the court ruled on it. The measure has been upheld by Maryland's Court of Appeals.

Since their removal from the piers and a floating casino, at least one operator has removed his operations onto Maryland soil.

"As soon as we are formally notified of the appeal," said Maryland Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, "we will immediately file a motion asking the court to uphold the Maryland law."

Pope May Boost Number Of Cardinals To 80 Dec. 15

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Speculation increased Tuesday that at next week's consistory Pope John XXIII may increase the College of Cardinals to 80.

If he did this, it would be the second time since his coronation five weeks ago that the new pontiff increased the number of cardinals, fixed at 70 by Pope Sixtus V almost four centuries ago.

Ansa, Italian news agency, said Pope John probably would set the size of the college at 80 in the secret consistory Dec. 15 when he explains his reasons for having increased the number of cardinals to 75.

Since he nominated 23 new cardinals Nov. 17 to bring the college to 75, the 92-year-old archbishop of Santiago, Jose Maria Caro Rodriguez, died in Chile.

Ansa said the Pope probably will tell the consistory that he has the names of six more cardinals "reserved in petto" (in secret) and that they would be named publicly at a consistory next year.

General Killed In 'Copter Crash

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Bogardus S. Cairns, 49, commanding general of Ft. Rucker and commandant of the Army Aviation Center here, was killed instantly Tuesday when his light helicopter crashed in a wooded sector of the base.

Cairns was piloting the two-place helicopter and was alone at the time of the accident. He was en route to a rehearsal for a firepower demonstration planned for visiting dignitaries here Thursday.

Second West Va. Pen Escapee Recaptured

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The second of three men who broke out of Moundsville State Penitentiary Nov. 5 was picked up near here Tuesday. He was hiding behind a kitchen stove in the home of his wife's parents.

Donald Harless, 36, was arrested after police were tipped off that he was at the home. He surrendered without any trouble.

The Marmet man, along with Robert R. Taylor, 45, and Elwood McClure, 40, both of Charleston, escaped by opening a gate at the prison with a key fashioned from metal.

Taylor was captured a few days later in Norfolk, Va., but McClure is still missing. Harless told authorities he spent most of the time following his escape at Greenup, Ky., near Huntington.

Prince's Leg In Cast

NEWBURY, England (AP) — Prince Charles, 10-year-old heir to the British throne, went to a hospital Tuesday and came out with his right leg in a plaster cast.

Dulles Looks To Paris Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles plans to leave for Paris Friday, providing his doctors have subdued the inflammation of his colon without surgery.

State Department press chief Lincoln White told a news conference Tuesday Dulles continues to make progress at the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center. He has been there since last Friday, under treatment for diverticulitis.

White's medical reports have emphasized that doctors find no recurrence of cancer. Dulles had a cancerous section of his intestines removed two years ago.

Diverticulitis occurs when a weak section of the intestine swells out in a pouch. It generally causes a painful abdominal ache. Immediate treatment includes bed rest, a bland diet and antiseptic washes—all of which Dulles is now getting.

If there is no response, the weak section usually is stitched up in an operation which does not require cutting the abdominal wall.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK — Conrad Hilton groped briefly for the words that would sum up his unique position in the international hotel world.

"Maybe I could put it this way: The world needs an inn," the big, gray-topped fellow said as he speared at his fast luncheon. "That need is more imperative, I think, than the world's various troubles. There's always going to be some kind of trouble in the world. There has been since the first fellow threw a rock. If we were going to wait for all the world's troubles to subside, we'd never get around to opening a hotel."

He had just returned from troubled West Berlin where the Berlin Hilton now rises like a symbol of hope for West Berliners and a reminder to the people of East Berlin that their masters are defrauding them. The Berlin Hilton is the third of the company's European hotels, preceded by the Castellana Hilton and the Istanbul Hilton. Each is a towering success. The hotel in Istanbul (with its 12-language switchboard) has been 100 per cent occupied every day since it was opened more than two years ago.

Hilton doesn't own these pleasure domes. His outfit operates them, supplying know-how and other services for a fixed percentage of the gross. The owners are local business men, banks, unions. The backers of the Berlin Hilton are secured by the West Berlin Senate and the Bonn government. A similar arrangement will apply in the building of the Amsterdam Hilton and Rotterdam Hilton—the Dutch government will lend its encouragement. This is the financial set-up of the Nile Hilton, which opens in Cairoin in February.

"There's generally antagonism against us when the subject of a new hotel is broached in a foreign country," Hilton shrugged. "But actually we help hotel business wherever we go, for the simple reason that our place attracts more people to that city or capital than we can handle. We help business and employment too. More than 95 per cent of all employes at our places overseas are natives, trained in our ways of hygiene and our method of running things.

"Cesar Ritz conceived of the hotel as being the retreat of the rich and the pampered. He made his lobbies small, to keep the crowds from coming in from the street. Life centered not in public rooms but upstairs, away from things. He lavished loving individual care on those fortunate enough to find a room in his place. We have a different philosophy on the matter of spaciousness. We think the mingling of peoples does good, not harm, particularly in today's world. Relieves tension. It is more important, to our way of thinking, than to have a man brushing you every place you go."

Hilton International is not a big money-maker. It does not lose money, to be sure, but obscure hotels in the company's domestic chain make more with less fuss and certainly fewer feathers. It is the boss's pet, and excellent young officials such as John Houser, who has left the company, have made the operation into a spirited American business crusade.

"There's no imperialistic side to this operation," Hilton said. "It's business, of course, but it's also an earnest way of saying we mean well toward all peoples. In Istanbul the Turks have a fine custom. They give you a cup of their coffee and say, 'Drink this with me and it will commit you to 30 years of friendship.' I like that. It reflects what we're trying to do."

Hilton went international almost by accident. He was among the few inn-keepers who deigned to answer a form letter sent by the Puerto Rico Development Corporation after the close of World War II. Hilton speaks Spanish fluently. He larded his reply with Spanish terms and won the assignment to operate what became the Caribe Hilton. His empire now reaches as far south as the El Panama, on the Isthmus, north to the huge Queen Elizabeth in Montreal, east to the Bosphorus. The contracts for the Baghdad and the Tokyo Hiltons have been signed. Work has started on the Rome Hilton, after Communists barred the way for four years. The London Hilton awaits a pending act of Parliament.

"Where do you go from there?" I asked him.

He took a hearty swig of his iced tea. "To every major capital, to every major city in the world," he said firmly. He will leave Space to his sons.

In olden times, the crow was termed a bird of evil omen because of its black plumage.

Moonshine Case May Not Be Called Until Next Year

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — State's Atty. Frank H. Newell said Tuesday the moonshining case against two Pennsylvanians probably will not be called up in Criminal Court until next year.

Newell said the criminal information filed last week charged Norman Shaeffer, 27, of Stewartstown, Pa., and Dale W. Joines, 18, of Laurel, Pa., with manufacturing and possessing material and equipment for illegal manufacture of alcoholic beverages.

Shaeffer and Joines are free in $5,000 bond.

They were arrested in a raid Nov. 4 by state and county officers. The seven-man raiding party found them at a deserted farm house at Freeland, Md.

Police found bags of rye on the first floor of the farm house and a still on the second floor. Six vats each contained 700 gallons of mash and 10 cases of jars filled with 60 gallons of moonshine.

Commissioners Plan Blueprint Advisor

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — If you can't read blueprints, take heart. The Washington County Board of County Commissioners admits it can't either.

They decided Tuesday to investigate the setup in Carroll County, where an engineer advises commissioners about blueprints.

Commissioner Charles Downey told his fellow Washington County officials, "It's too late after a school or bridge is built to look at it and say we could have eliminated this or that."

New Frederick By-Pass Opened By Gov. McKeldin

FREDERICK (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today opened an elaborate new by-pass around the city of Frederick and predicted it will be an important hub in future interstate travel through Maryland.

The $6,314,489 circumferential route gives the city a municipal expressway second only to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel project in size and expense.

Together with its ramps, connections and interchanges it covers a distance of 21 miles and connects with four U.S. highways — 40, 15, 240 and 340 — as it swings around three sides of the city.

"Beginning today, through traffic on these four interstate highways will glide smoothly around the city instead of stalling at stoplights in Christmas traffic," McKeldin said.

Engineers predict that 30 per cent of Patrick St. traffic through Frederick will be diverted to the by-pass and say that motorists will benefit by cutting the transit time in half.

But, McKeldin said in his prepared speech, the facility is not designed entirely to speed out-of-town motorists through Frederick. He observed that with 11 traffic interchanges providing easy access to city streets and avenues, city motorists will find it highly convenient for cross-town trips.

"It is the peer of any expressway in the United States, for a city this size," he said.

Ground was broken for the by-pass four years ago. It was built to standards which will enable it to be part of the federal interstate highway system.

Army Officer Dies In Auto Accident

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — An Army officer from Martinsburg was killed in an auto accident in Germany, his family was informed.

He was 1st Lt. John W. Keefe Jr., 26, who died during the weekend. Keefe was serving with the 8th Aviation Co. of the 8th Army Division.

Details of the accident were not given in the notification to the family.

Keefe was a 1956 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy. He had attended Shepherd College at Shepherdstown.

The body was to be returned here for burial.

Christmas Vacation

BALTIMORE (AP) — School children in Baltimore City and Allegany, Dorchester, Harford and Prince Georges counties begin their Christmas vacation on Dec. 19. But in the rest of the state, classes extend through Dec. 23.

All classes resume on Monday, Jan. 5.

The Mayas are the oldest Indian stock of which we have any knowledge.

Baltimore Schedules Fire Safety Hearings

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore City Council will begin hearings next Monday on fire safety conditions at the city's 275 public, parochial and private schools.

The action was decided on Monday night in the wake of fires at three schools during the past weekend and in view of the disastrous Chicago school fire in which 92 died.

REBEL ROUNDUP

NANCY, France (UPI)—Fifty-five suspected Algerian rebel agents have been arrested in police roundups in the ancy industrial region, authorities reported here Tuesday.

Acid-Hurling Purse Snatchers Hunted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police were combing Baltimore Tuesday for two bandits who sprayed acid in a woman's face, grabbed her pocketbook and fled.

The pocketbook was empty.

Miss Hazel Cach, 37, told police that two Negroes approached her after she got off a bus at Park Ave. and McMechen St. One sprayed a liquid in her face and grabbed her pocketbook. Then both men fled.

Miss Cash was treated at a hospital for small burns in and around her eyes and on the temple. The hospital said the burns were caused by "an unknown liquid, probably acid."

Brewster Heads State Fair Board

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Daniel B. Brewster, newly elected U.S. representative from the Second District, is the new president of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, which sponsors the annual state fair and horse racing meet at Timonium.

Brewster was elected Monday night to succeed John H. Zink, who refused to seek reelection.

Others elected were John M. Heil, vice president and general manager; Richard C. Riggs, vice president; Richard N. Wills, treasurer, and Richard Emory, secretary.

New directors on the 31-member board are John Pons, McLean Campbell, Austin C. Remm, Stuart Janney Jr., Herschel H. Allen Jr. and Emory.

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a remarkable formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.

Instead of upsetting the delicate acid-balance of the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without fear of distress.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 36 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablets. Your money back if not entirely satisfied.

The $6,314,489 circumferential route gives the city a municipal expressway second only to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel project in size and expense.

Together with its ramps, connections and interchanges it covers a distance of 21 miles and connects with four U.S. highways — 40, 15, 240 and 340 — as it swings around three sides of the city.

"Beginning today, through traffic on these four interstate highways will glide smoothly around the city instead of stalling at stoplights in Christmas traffic," McKeldin said.

Engineers predict that 30 per cent of Patrick St. traffic through Frederick will be diverted to the by-pass and say that motorists will benefit by cutting the transit time in half.

But, McKeldin said in his prepared speech, the facility is not designed entirely to speed out-of-town motorists through Frederick. He observed that with 11 traffic interchanges providing easy access to city streets and avenues, city motorists will find it highly convenient for cross-town trips.

"It is the peer of any expressway in the United States, for a city this size," he said.

Ground was broken for the by-pass four years ago. It was built to standards which will enable it to be part of the federal interstate highway system.

1959 EDSEL

Edsel Ranger 2-door sedan

Makes history by making sense!

Check the new official price labels for Edsel's new, low prices

The new law says that every car must have a label showing the manufacturer's suggested retail price—and Edsel Dealers are even happier about it than the public! Because Edsel prices didn't go up this year—they went down! The 1959 Edsel is now priced with the most popular three—and the price labels prove it!

Edsel's four new high-efficiency engines prove something else important—real gas economy. They include a thrifty six with a great test-track record—and a new, economy V-8 that uses regular gasoline!

Edsel's new size makes sense, too. Six-passenger room inside—less length outside. And less useless car weight. So it's much easier to handle than long, bulky cars.

Try the car that's proud to wear its price—proud to prove it makes sense! See your Edsel Dealer!

Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a remarkable formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts.

Instead of upsetting the delicate acid-balance of the stomach, as too frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity.

Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without fear of distress.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 36 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablets. Your money back if not entirely satisfied.

AAUW Unit Hears Talk On Africa

The International Relations Group of Cumberland Branch AAUW heard an illustrated talk on Africa by Mrs. Robert Stallings at the meeting in the home of Miss Dorothy Willison, Fayette Street.

Mrs. Stallings explained that her trip last summer started from New York, to the Cape of Good Hope, then visited Capetown, and stops at various ports up the west coast. Mrs. Stallings left the ship at Monrovia, Liberia and went by plane across country. Among other places she visited the Belgian Congo, Uganda, and Kenya. She said her goal was to see Africa, its scenery, natives and wild life, which Africa has preserved.

By camera, Mrs. Stallings captured some of it, revealing much primitive life south of the Sahara. She also showed photos of the advances civilization is making in Africa, with some cities as modern as those of America. Speaking of the wealth of Africa, Mrs. Stallings pointed out the abundance of minerals, bauxite and mahogany, the latter being used even for crates. She said there is a lot of room for the small businessmen, but so far they have not gone in.

Miss Janet Anderson presided. Miss Annie B. Gray and Miss Addie Newell assisted Miss Willison in serving dessert and coffee. Others present were Mrs. A. L. Rogers, Miss Adele Malcolm, Miss Virginia Dixon, Mrs. Cara L. Ebert, Mrs. Veronica Schleifman, Miss Geraldine Wolf, Mrs. Georgia Wolford, Miss Pauline Fisher, Miss Margaret Baker, Mrs. William H. Blake, Miss Lillian Boughton and Mrs. John G. Thomas.

"Boiling Water" Reactor U.S. Hope For Low-Cost A-Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some day this month a barge will be towed into the mouth of the Mississippi River carrying history's biggest piece of cargo and America's biggest hope for early peacetime atomic power at low cost.

The cargo will be a reactor vessel, 12 feet in diameter and 42 feet high, made of steel five inches thick and weighing 350 tons. It was welded together in the New York Shipbuilding Yards at Camden, N. J.

The barge will proceed up the Mississippi then up the Illinois River to the Dresden Locks at Dresden, Ill. There the giant reactor vessel, too heavy for the largest crane in the world to lift free, will be ingeniously unloaded by "flooding" the barge onto dry land. The vessel then will be rolled and righted into position.

According to the experts, welding such heavy steel on the job is impossible, and all reactor vessels therefore are made in one piece. This one the largest that conceivably could be made with present facilities, is for the Dresden "boiling water" reactor being built by General Electric for a group of utilities headed by Commonwealth Edison of Chicago.

Fluid Needs No Pressure

The key to the comparative cheapness of the electricity it will produce lies in the term "boiling water." That means that the working fluid drawing heat from the uranium chain reaction to be placed in the vessel will not have to be under pressure as is the case of America's first large atomic plant at Shippingport, Pa.

Reactor construction, apart from the vessel, therefore can be lighter and less expensive.

How that makes such a difference can hardly be made clear in a sentence or two, but the result is not subject to doubt. The fact is that the boiling water reactor already has entered the world competition to reduce the cost of atomic power, and has won the first round decisively.

The showdown came in Italy last September when bids were opened for construction of the SENN (Societa Electronucleare Nazionale) power plant to be built partly with funds from the World Bank at Ponta Fiume on the Garigliano River near Naples.

The British had talked so much about cheap atomic power, and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission had issued so many excuses about why Atomic electricity was economical in Britain but not in America, that it was a foregone conclusion a British firm would submit the low bid.

But the boiling water bid from the United States was low, showing a cost of 11.1 milles (1.11 cents) per kilowatt hour, as against a 12.1 mills per kilowatt hour cost among the four British bids.

Dresden Plant Larger

The SENN plant is to have a capacity of 150,000 kilowatts, enough for a residential city of a third of a million people on a U.S. standard of living. The Dresden plant in Illinois will be somewhat larger, 180,000 kilowatts. There the cost per kilowatt hour has been figured down to eight mills, or the same as for a modern coal-fired plant.

The low Dresden cost figure was accomplished by writing off 15-million dollars of the 45-million dollar reactor price to "research and development," or "Knowledge." This knowledge will have been purchased cheaply, however, if it shows how to use an unlimited power source in place of one that will be exhausted in a few decades.

The eight - mill Dresden cost compares with 60 mills at Shippingport. The Shippingport managers believe they may get their costs down to 30 mills by incorporating improvements in the second complete fuel "core" that will be needed in a few years.

If Dresden and similar plants should be able to halve their present cost figures in a secondgo-around, the day of really cheap atomic power would be here.

Record Cotton Yield Per Acre Seen This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Monday estimated the 1958 cotton crop at 11,581,000 bales and predicted a record average output of 469 pounds per acre.

The forecast by the department's crop reporting board was down 183,000 bales, or about 1.6 per cent, from the November estimate. This year's final report also compares with 1957 production of 10,964,000 bales and a 10-year average of 14,136,000 bales.

The record high yield of 469 pounds per acre is 52 pounds above the previous high of 417 pounds set in 1955. Record per-acre yields were produced in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

This year's production will be added to a carryover from other years estimated at 8,700,000 bales as of Aug. 1.

The board estimated that farmers harvested 11,858,000 acres of cotton this year, smallest since 1876. Since 12,375,000 acres were under cultivation July 1, this meant 4.2 per cent of the crop was abandoned because of insect damage or other reasons.

Ginning is practically completed in southeastern areas except northern Alabama. In the Central Belt states about 90 per cent of the crop was ginned by Dec. 1. Eighty - seven per cent of the Texas crop was ginned to Dec. 1 and 89 per cent of Oklahoma production.

Harvest was nearing completion in California. For the United States, about 89 per cent of the crop was ginned by Dec.1, compared with 73.8 per cent a year ago.

The national acreage allotment for the 1959 crop already has been set at 16,310,000 acres, somewhat below the 17,600,000 acres for this year's crop. About 5 million acres of cotton land were placed in the acreage reserve this year.

Two Soldiers Nabbed After Wild Chase

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Two soldiers who escaped from a disciplinary barracks and led police on a four-state auto chase were held in Morgan County jail Tuesday.

They were captured here early Tuesday morning after State Police angled a big tractor trailer across W. Va. Rt. 9.

In Washington, the Pentagon identified the soldiers as Lonnie C. Jacobs of Newport News, Va., serving two years for burglary and conspiracy to commit forgery, and Leroy C. Reitenouer of Kutztown, Pa., serving nine months for being Absent Without Leave.

State Police Cpl. C. S. Burke said the men had broken away from the New Cumberland barracks near Harrisburg. The men were in a parolee barracks outside the regular stockade, the Pentagon said.

Cpl. Burke said they stole a car, drove on the Pennsylvania Turnpike to the Breezewood interchange, then cut south through Maryland and into Virginia. At Winchester they sped away from a service station without paying for gas.

That set local and state police in Virginia and West Virginia in motion. They pursued at speeds up to 100 m. p. h. After Jacobs and Reitenouer zipped through Martinsburg on U. S. 11, they turned off on W. Va. Rt. 9 and were thwarted by the road block here.

Mentally Deficient Children In W.Va. Institution Getting Inadequate Care

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Inadequate care of mentally deficient children at the West Virginia Training School in St. Marys was described Monday before the State Board of Public Works as one of the state's most alarming problems.

Robert J. Blair, Parkersburg, president of the W. Va. Parents Assn. — a group of parents with children or relatives at the institution — told of lack of proper feeding and bathing for crib patients.

Blair and George Fumich of Pursglove, Monongalia County, were principal speakers for the group during a hearing on the State Department of Mental Health's budget request for 1959-60.

Blair said if the school's budget was not increased, the St. Marys standards "will be lower because of the increase in the number of children to be cared for."

"We are not asking luxuries for these children," he said. "We are asking that they be given adequate and proper care. "The children in the crib ward have not had a bath since last summer."

He said this was not caused by the inefficiency of the personnel now at the school but was "proof that only two women can not take care of 60 crib patients." He said the crib patients were given sponge baths.

Blair said the two women could not spoon-feed children who need to be fed in such a manner. "There is just not enough time for them to do it because they also are charged with the responsibilty of being janitors for the ward," he said.

Fumich said the term training school was a misnomer for the school. "It is doing no more than providing an ironic name for the place," the former delegate said.

"We believe if the people know what is going on they'll want to do something about it," Fumich said. "We believe there is an acute situation at St. Marys and we believe that throughout the state government there is no more acute problem."

Dr. Colin A. Anderson, who two weeks ago became acting superintendent at the school, said of the more than 230 patients at the school approximately 20 per cent had been sentenced there for treatment by courts.

He said he hoped to have these "juvenile delinquents" transferred to the boys or girls reformatories so that St. Marys could be maintained only for mentally retarded children.

Philos Lodge Will Elect Officers

WESTERNPORT—Philos Lodge 91 of Odd Fellows will elect officers this evening.

The noble grand and vice grand will be elected for six months and the other officers for the coming year.

Five trustees will be selected under articles of incorporation which were adopted several months ago.

Catholic Women Plan Jingle Party Today

KEYSER—The Catholic Women's Club of the Church of the Assumption will conduct a jingle party this evening at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Hall on James Street.

Each member is asked to bring a jingle gift. The club will also sponsor a bake sale in the hall on Sunday after the 8 a. m. and 10 a. m. masses.

Two Soldiers Nabbed After Wild Chase

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Two soldiers who escaped from a disciplinary barracks and led police on a four-state auto chase were held in Morgan County jail Tuesday.

They were captured here early Tuesday morning after State Police angled a big tractor trailer across W. Va. Rt. 9.

In Washington, the Pentagon identified the soldiers as Lonnie C. Jacobs of Newport News, Va., serving two years for burglary and conspiracy to commit forgery, and Leroy C. Reitenouer of Kutztown, Pa., serving nine months for being Absent Without Leave.

State Police Cpl. C. S. Burke said the men had broken away from the New Cumberland barracks near Harrisburg. The men were in a parolee barracks outside the regular stockade, the Pentagon said.

Cpl. Burke said they stole a car, drove on the Pennsylvania Turnpike to the Breezewood interchange, then cut south through Maryland and into Virginia. At Winchester they sped away from a service station without paying for gas.

That set local and state police in Virginia and West Virginia in motion. They pursued at speeds up to 100 m. p. h. After Jacobs and Reitenouer zipped through Martinsburg on U. S. 11, they turned off on W. Va. Rt. 9 and were thwarted by the road block here.

Mentally Deficient Children In W.Va. Institution Getting Inadequate Care

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Inadequate care of mentally deficient children at the West Virginia Training School in St. Marys was described Monday before the State Board of Public Works as one of the state's most alarming problems.

Robert J. Blair, Parkersburg, president of the W. Va. Parents Assn. — a group of parents with children or relatives at the institution — told of lack of proper feeding and bathing for crib patients.

Blair and George Fumich of Pursglove, Monongalia County, were principal speakers for the group during a hearing on the State Department of Mental Health's budget request for 1959-60.

Blair said if the school's budget was not increased, the St. Marys standards "will be lower because of the increase in the number of children to be cared for."

"We are not asking luxuries for these children," he said. "We are asking that they be given adequate and proper care. "The children in the crib ward have not had a bath since last summer."

He said this was not caused by the inefficiency of the personnel now at the school but was "proof that only two women can not take care of 60 crib patients." He said the crib patients were given sponge baths.

Blair said the two women could not spoon-feed children who need to be fed in such a manner. "There is just not enough time for them to do it because they also are charged with the responsibilty of being janitors for the ward," he said.

Fumich said the term training school was a misnomer for the school. "It is doing no more than providing an ironic name for the place," the former delegate said.

"We believe if the people know what is going on they'll want to do something about it," Fumich said. "We believe there is an acute situation at St. Marys and we believe that throughout the state government there is no more acute problem."

Dr. Colin A. Anderson, who two weeks ago became acting superintendent at the school, said of the more than 230 patients at the school approximately 20 per cent had been sentenced there for treatment by courts.

He said he hoped to have these "juvenile delinquents" transferred to the boys or girls reformatories so that St. Marys could be maintained only for mentally retarded children.

Non-Red Countries Gradually Forming Economic Battleline

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The non-Communist world, in a series of efforts not directly coordinated but directed at the same objective, is gradually forming its line of battle to meet the Communist economic challenge.

There is a pattern in which regional organizations will undertake to do for their areas what American and United Nations aid programs have been attempting, but without any reduction in the latter.

Indeed, there is to be an increase in the United Nations effort, and all of the plans revolve more or less around increased American cooperation both in the form of lending and in redirection of some of its resources.

For instance, under the plan for a new economic development fund to make "soft" loans, the United States will put into world trade channels some of the local currencies earned under her aid program which hitherto have been rebateable only for local developments.

Regional meetings affecting the entire non-Communist world have been held this year with a common objective—to raise living standards generally and so lessen the effect of appeals for radical economic and political experiments.

These meetings include the Colombo Plan at Seattle, the various moves of the European Economic Community which will come into being next month, the Inter-American Economic conference at Washington last week, the Commonwealth finance ministers at Ottawa, and the World Bank and International Monetary fund at Delhi.

Some involve reductions of trade barriers. Most were concerned with means of allowing the soft as well as the hard currencies to find a working level in trade. All are designed to create new productivity and facilitate distribution in world markets.

Part of this is the result of a feeling that the Communists have shifted their major emphasis from military to economic conquest. The Reds are using constructive alignments in an attempt to spread their hegemony, as well as destructive tactics such as dumping to disturb world markets.

The non-Communist movements also represent a growing recognition that solution of long-term, fundamental problems are essential, and that they are now approachable under conditions of military stalemate.

THINGS LOOKING LITTLE BRIGHTER—Stanley Burda, 37, talks with Mrs. Frank Cappello as they check envelopes containing donations for families whose children were killed or injured in the Our Lady of the Angels school fire at Chicago. Things were blackest a week ago when he left a hospital wearing protective blinders over an injured eye to make funeral arrangements for his daughter who was killed in the fire. Burda was unemployed at the time and today he has a job checking up on the needs of other families who suffered in the tragedy. Also doctors told him his eye is virtually normal again. (AP Photofax)

President Of ABA Says Legal Profession Should Work To Recruit Promising Talent

BALTIMORE (AP) — The legal profession ought to do more to interest young people to become lawyers, the president of the American Bar Assn. said Tuesday night.

Ross L. Malone of Roswell, N.M., said that despite talk to the contrary among some attorneys, there isn't any overcrowding in the profession. And he added that there is fierce competition for students in other fields, such as science.

"Admissions to the bar for the past three years are at almost exactly the rate of admissions in the years 1931 to 1934, at the time when the impact of the depression years undoubtedly was taking a toll," Malone said.

"Yet the population of the country has increased during the ensuing years from 129 million to 171 million, some 33½ per cent."

Malone made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Baltimore City Bar Assn.

He said lawyers as individuals and organized groups should work along several lines to recruit promising talent. His suggestions included:

There should be qualified law counselors in all liberal arts schools;

Law students should be integrated into the profession to the fullest extent possible;

There must be increased emphasis on establishing law scholarships and law student loan funds.

The 48-year-old former deputy attorney general of the United States also told his audience that lawyers should take post-graduate studies to keep abreast of "the new problems arising in our increasingly complex society."

These are some of the increasing responsibilities attorneys must deal with, said Malone: "The flood of reported cases from state and federal courts; the kaleidoscopic developments in the fields of tax and administrative law; the novel legal problems presented by nuclear fission and fusion and their application to industrial uses."

The speaker said the subject of continuing legal education of the bar will be discussed at a New York meeting Dec. 16-19, sponsored by the American Bar Assn. and the American Law Institute. It is being financed through the Fund for Adult Education, created by the Ford Foundation.

Speaking of the need for getting high school and college students interested in law, Malone told the bar group, "We are closing our eyes to reality if we do not realize that the tremendous effort now being made to attract young people of ability into careers in the sciences and engineering inevirably will reduce the number of outstanding students who apply for admission to law schools.

"A prominent educator recently observed: 'We have entered a rat race for scientists that will dwarf the old competition for athletes. Where the coaches play with thousands, the government and the large foundations command millions — hundreds of millions."

President Of ABA Says Legal Profession Should Work To Recruit Promising Talent

BALTIMORE (AP) — The legal profession ought to do more to interest young people to become lawyers, the president of the American Bar Assn. said Tuesday night.

Ross L. Malone of Roswell, N.M., said that despite talk to the contrary among some attorneys, there isn't any overcrowding in the profession. And he added that there is fierce competition for students in other fields, such as science.

"Admissions to the bar for the past three years are at almost exactly the rate of admissions in the years 1931 to 1934, at the time when the impact of the depression years undoubtedly was taking a toll," Malone said.

"Yet the population of the country has increased during the ensuing years from 129 million to 171 million, some 33⅓ per cent."

Malone made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Baltimore City Bar Assn.

He said lawyers as individuals and organized groups should work along several lines to recruit promising talent. His suggestions included:

There should be qualified law counselors in all liberal arts schools;

Law students should be integrated into the profession to the fullest extent possible;

There must be increased emphasis on establishing law scholarships and law student loan funds.

The 48-year-old former deputy attorney general of the United States also told his audience that lawyers should take post-graduate studies to keep abreast of "the new problems arising in our increasingly complex society."

These are some of the increasing responsibilities attorneys must deal with, said Malone: "The flood of reported cases from state and federal courts; the kaleidoscopic developments in the fields of tax and administrative law; the novel legal problems presented by nuclear fission and fusion and their application to industrial uses."

The speaker said the subject of continuing legal education of the bar will be discussed at a New York meeting Dec. 16-19, sponsored by the American Bar Assn. and the American Law Institute. It is being financed through the Fund for Adult Education, created by the Ford Foundation.

Speaking of the need for getting high school and college students interested in law, Malone told the bar group, "We are closing our eyes to reality if we do not realize that the tremendous effort now being made to attract young people of ability into careers in the sciences and engineering inevirably will reduce the number of outstanding students who apply for admission to law schools.

"A prominent educator recently observed: 'We have entered a rat race for scientists that will dwarf the old competition for athletes. Where the coaches play with thousands, the government and the large foundations command millions — hundreds of millions."

Standby Crews Are Named For Snow Removal

Street Commissioner John J. Long said yesterday he had taken immediate steps to see that emergency crews are on call in the future to prevent a recurrence of Monday night's delay in getting a crew on city streets to battle slippery conditions caused by snow.

Mr. Long said the memorandum went yesterday to Street Superintendent Andrew H. Heller. Long said the need for standby crews was emphasized and it was ordered that lists of standby crews be published at the warehouse.

In his note, Mr. Long stressed the need for speed in weather emergencies and added if work was not done quickly and efficiently it made no difference how many tons of salt and calcium chloride or how many feet of cinders were spread.

Mr. Long said a time limit should be set and all employes attempt to meet it. Work should start, he added when snow begins to fall.

In event a foreman is unable to make it, he should call the superintendent. A No. 2 foreman should be provided for these emergencies since the No. 1 man cannot spend all his time on the phone but must be on the job to supervise, he said.

He said letters of commendation are going to the men who did report in last night's emergency.

Some difficulty in mustering a crew developed and slippery conditions had occurred on some streets and hilly sections. Seven men responded to the call and two trucks were placed in operation to salt and cinder. Some traffic tieups were reported on Greene Street and elsewhere.

School Board Acquires Land

The Allegany County Board of Education has made its first acquisition of land sought for enlarging the athletic field at Valley High School near Lonaconing.

A deed was filed on Monday in the land records office of Allegany County Court House. The property was purchased by the board from Mrs. Anna M. Robertson, of Westernport.

The property is located in Election District 10. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of public schools, said last night the land is needed in the expansion program and is located between the existing field and State Route 36.

Last year part of the same tract of land was acquired since it was needed to relieve a drainage condition along the upper section of the field.

More Sunny, Cold Weather Expected

A sunny, crisp and cold day greeted the tri-state area yesterday following Monday's freezing snow flurries which turned streets and highways into sheets of ice.

State Roads Commission officials said roadways throughout Western Maryland were well cindered and almost bare, with some ice in spots.

Accident and Grantsville reported about 3½ inches of snow on the ground but travel is not hazardous and chains are no longer necessary.

Frostburg had a temperature reading of 17 most of the day while the mercury remained constant at Big Savage at 11 degrees.

Oakland had a low of eight degrees last night with a high of 23 for the day. High in Cumberland was 26 with a low of 17 last night.

Identical Cars Cause Mixups

Walter E. Derlan of Narrows Park reported to police Monday night that his parked car had been stolen from Henderson Avenue. Then he learned it had been mistaken for another car of the same model and color which had been parked nearby.

Mr. Darlan said he parked near a store and left the keys in the car. When he came out, the car was gone. He called police and reported it stolen.

A Bowman's Addition motorist drove the "stolen" car home, found out that there were too many keys on the ring, then realized the car didn't belong to him. He retraced his trail to Henderson Avenue and found Mr. Derlan waiting for his car.

Both men then drove off in their own cars.

LaSalle Class Reunion Slated

The Class of 1948 of LaSalle High School will hold its first class reunion here on Christmas, James A. Collins, president, announces.

He said members of the class will meet on Christmas evening on the first floor of the home of Cumberland Council, 586, Knights of Columbus.

The meeting will begin at 6 p. m. An election of officers will be held and cocktails will be served. Future plans will also be discussed.

Afterwards, the members plan to attend a dance being sponsored by the K. of C. An effort is being made to contact all members of the class. Anyone seeking additional information or knowing the whereabouts of out-of-town class members is asked to contact Frederick Hill, PA 4-4381.

raised to $42.50, along with boosts in allowances for clothing and school supplies.

He said the departments will also ask the Legislature for funds to boost its staff to do work needed to provide protective care for children as ordered by the courts.

More workers are needed, he added, to provide after care when youths come out of training schools.

Oakland Meeting Set

He said Allegany County's cost for the 1958-59 program was $191,000, or about 20 per cent of the total costs of $1,230,000, which included state and federal funds.

To Delegate Fred B. Driscoll's query as to why welfare people are not permitted to earn reasonable amounts to augment their allotments, Mr. Waxter said the department has no discretion in the matter, due to the failure of proposed federal legislation.

Del. Noel Speir Cook pointed out he had learned that the department allows $100 for burial for old age recipients but $150 for the blind.

Mr. Waxter explained that the bill to boost burial rates for the blind passed the Legislature and a similar bill for welfare people failed.

The inequity should be corrected, Del. Cook stressed.

The Department of Public Welfare officials left here early yesterday afternoon for Oakland, where they were scheduled to meet at 7:30 p. m. with the Welfare Board, County Delegation and County Commissioners of Garrett County.

C&A Gas Plans Company Split

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co., which serves customers in both West Virginia and Maryland, began Tuesday the necessary steps to break its structural makeup into West Virginia and Maryland companies.

The C&A filed with the Public Service Commission an application to transfer all of its retail distribution assets in Maryland to a new corporation which would be called the Columbia Gas of Maryland, Inc.

The C&A is an affiliate of the Columbia Gas System. Columbia announced several years ago an ultimate plan to operate through companies having jurisdiction in only one state.

The petition would have no effect on rates or service. It concerns only the corporate structure of the company.

The C&A supplies natural gas to the Cumberland area and Garrett County in Maryland and Mineral County in West Virginia.

Trucker Hurt When Vehicle Hits Train

Albert Slingloff, 57, of 35 Beall Street, Frostburg, was reported in "fair" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted yesterday morning after the truck he was operating crashed into a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train.

Mr. Slingloff sustained a deep laceration of his face in the accident, which occurred about 8:30 a. m. at the corner of Kelly Boulevard and Avirett Avenue.

The trucker told City Police he was attempting to turn his empty coal truck onto Avirett Avenue when it skidded into the path of the westbound train.

They Say They're Against Sin

Freedom of thought, conscience, religion, opinion, expression . . . ownership of property . . . education . . . economic security and adequate living standards . . . equality before the law . . . labor union membership . . . equal pay for equal work . . . asylum in other lands. These are among the rights every individual ought to enjoy, says the Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the U.N. General Assembly 10 years ago today.

And what should every individual be guaranteed against? Among other things, slavery or servitude . . . torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment . . . arbitrary arrest, detention, exile, interference with privacy . . . attacks upon honor and reputation . . . . discrimination.

As will be seen, the liberties specified in our own Constitution are pretty well covered. These are primarily political and civil. The 1948 Declaration, like the Four Freedoms enunciated by President F. D. Roosevelt in his 1941 annual message to Congress (of speech, of worship, from want, from fear), is also economic and social.

The Declaration was adopted unanimously although the Soviet bloc abstained from voting because, if you please, freedom from fascism was not specified! Also abstaining: Yugoslavia (another Communist state), South Africa (racial superiority complex), Saudi Arabia (slavery prevalent).

As almost everybody is against Sin, almost every nation is for the Declaration in principle. But after 11 years of wrestling with details, a U.N. committee still is unable to spell out a Human Rights treaty that wouldn't tread on too many toes. All the same, as with the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, the Beatitudes, there can be inspiration in the Declaration as an ideal, and many American communities honor Human Rights Day on December 10.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Berlin

Since Nikita Khrushchev has taken over the management of the Soviet Universal State, he has faced the West with a series of crises, one following upon the other with breathless haste. He has demonstrated his skill not only by the speed with which he manages each crisis in different parts of the world but also by his ability to bring about diverse attitudes among Russia's opponents, thus engendering confusion in their ranks. Actually, Soviet Russia stays out of many of these situations, using her satellites.

This, thus far, is not appearing in the Berlin crisis. On this subject, Khrushchev finds the West united. In fact, he is faced by the dramatic success of de Gaulle in France and the even more dramatic co-operation of France and West Germany. Whereas, Stalin, to a degree, found a means of stimulating a sharp division between the United States and Great Britain over the recognition of Red China, Khrushchev now finds the United States and Great Britain closer together than they have ever been.

Berlin presents a curious facade. West Berlin has grown back into a modern city, beautiful, prosperous, well-kept; East Berlin is a poverty-stricken, almost Orientalized Soviet city. The inhabitants are the same people, often members of the same families. In the instance of West Berlin, all the artistry and skill which made Germany so great have returned; in the case of East Berlin, these seem to have been lost in the repressions of Soviet life.

Berlin has then become a show-case, a show-case of contrasts. The result has been a constant and increasing migration of Germans from East to West Berlin.

Now, Khrushchev has given the United States, Great Britain and France a six months' ultimatum to get out of Berlin. It is true that he also offers to withdraw Russian troops but that is a hoax because what it would actually mean would be that Soviet troops would surround Berlin on three sides and that Sovietized troops would be inside Berlin, wearing East German uniforms and frightening the people into obedience to the Kremlin.

The hoax is too palpable and demonstrates a desperation, an urgency on the part of Khrushchev. After a series of victories, Khrushchev, who always talks too much, was defeated at Lebanon and Quemoy. It would seem that Khrushchev needs a dramatic victory. Observing the nature of the 1958 election and not quite understanding the American form of government, he undoubtedly believed that if Eisenhower took a tough stance on the Berlin situation, Eisenhower would be less popular than he showed up to be in the election—as though such an election as we had in 1958 was a popularity contest.

It is always difficult for Europeans to understand American elections. Even British experts on the United States often fail to realize that an American President is very different from a British Prime Minister who can only exist as a member of a political party. The American President, once in that office, no longer represents his party, but the entire American people. He has no Parliament to go to, but speaks in Congress through whatever leadership there is. In a sense, there is no real opposition party because when the President is of one party and the majority of Congress of another party, they must work together.

President Eisenhower now will have to depend upon Senator Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader in the Senate, and Speaker Sam Rayburn of the House of Representatives.

The Democrats will support the President on whatever stand we must take in the Berlin situation. There will be no opposition to protecting West Berlin from that quarter and the recent election in no manner affects this situation. We have only once carried our differences beyond our boundaries and that was when the Senate refused to ratify the Paris Treaty at the end of World War I. There is not likely to be such recalcitrance in the 86th Congress. Besides all the outstanding leaders of the Democratic Party, in or out of Congress, have already expressed themselves on the question of Berlin. They stand firm.

Khrushchev, like Hitler before him, does not grasp the essence of American freedom, which is that because we are free to differ and to express our differences we do not endanger our country because of these differences.

Senator Discussed Religion With Khrushchev

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Eight hours with Nikita Khrushchev — that's the challenging opportunity which came last week in Moscow to Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat. His comprehensive report on what was talked about was promptly relayed to the State Department. This did not include a supplementary discussion "of a personal nature" reserved by the Senator for presentation to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles this week.

Significantly the conversation touched on some matters in the category of philosophy and religion. It didn't occupy the two men as much as the many other subjects of current importance but may have been equally worth while. For actually this is the channel that has been clogged up. Words of diplomacy and negotiation are meaningless unless they carry with them a trustfulness and sincerity that assure the fulfillment of pledges and agreements between governments.

Unless two men who try to settle any International dispute can agree on what is right or wrong, what is moral or unmoral, what is just or unjust, what is truly beneficial to millions of human beings and what is likely to be to their detriment, there is little chance to dispose satisfactorily of any of the major problems that cause friction between countries.

With these things in mind, the writer picked up the telephone on Sunday and talked with Senator Humphrey in London. Following is an excerpt from our recorded conversation which Mr. Humphrey has permitted me to quote:

"Q. Did you get into the religious phase — our belief in God and how so many people on our side have in mind this fundamental difference between our nations as being in the background of our difficulties

"A. Well, I commented on that but primarily in terms of questions. I asked about anti-Semitism, for example, in the Soviet Union, and about the whole question of religious freedom there. Mr. Khrushchev denied the existence of anti-Semitism and said there was a degree of religious freedom — in other words, that people could go to their churches. Of course, I pointed out that there were very few of them to go to. He was not too responsive, I might say, on this. I told him that the physical well-being of man was conditioned by his spiritual well-being, and that one of the things that always disturbed us was the lack of spiritual emphasis. He, of course, responds to this sort of talk by saying that, in the Socialist or Communist countries, people identify their own individual welfare with the welfare of the state. May I put it this way: That you can have some opportunities to discuss these things but I doubt that it changes the minds of the leaders very much.

Q. Well, you never can tell how much sinkes in —

"A. No, you can't. The fact is that the degree of discussion—the amount of time given to it—indicated that there was some interest in what we were saying. One other thing: Mr. Khrushchev also told me a great deal about his parents and their religious feelings — that they were devout Christians and that he himself had been brought up in the Russian Orthodox faith. He demonstrated some knowledge of the Bible — so that, despite all of this odd, atheistic talk, I have a feeling that even Marxism does not fully eradicate the Christian spirit. I happen to feel that much of our activity — much of our program relating to the Soviet Union — needs to be put on this moral and spiritual basis."

Maybe Mr. Khrushchev thinks often about God but doesn't like to say so out loud. He hasn't been articulate on questions of religion, but he must realize that a vast part of the world has an abiding faith in a Supreme Being whether this faith is derived from the Old Testament or the New Testament or the Koran or the words of Confucius. Maybe the Soviet leader ponders that man is mortal and that his power is finite. Maybe the Soviet Premier occasionally remembers sadly the inanimate, helpless body of Josef Stalin as he lay in state shorn of his power. Maybe Mr. Khrushchev thinks of his own influence as more lasting and not as transient as that of some of the other leading figures of Russian history. He may come to realize some day that men of lasting influence have found help in the realm of the spiritual and the religious, where the world must look for the first clues to the ultimate solution of the problems of war and peace.

The Minnesota Senator drew certain conclusions from his talks with the Soviet Premier. One of them is that Mr. Khrushchev wants a "Summit" conference and anything else that would enhance his own position within the Soviet Union. He gives the impression of hurt feelings. He thinks he should not be excluded from Western councils but should be treated as an equal. This implies perhaps not exactly a feeling of inferiority but a resentment. Such an attitude is not unnatural with the leaders of governments that are relatively new in history though it should not be surprising when a whole ideology contrary to what the rest of the world has hitherto followed is being espoused.

Mr. Humphrey came away with the feeling that the areas of agreement at present are few. Certainly the episode indicates that, while "Summit" Conferences may have some good points for reasons of showmanship or propaganda, private talks without benefit of klieg lights and an observing army of newsmen are perhaps more useful. Mr. Khrushchev welcomes such contacts and has had several with Americans—among them Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Producers' Association, and Adlai Stevenson. There can be under such circumstances a give-and-take in discussion which is not always possible when ambassadors confer with a premier or a president and every word can be regarded as an official commitment. Informal contacts can indeed be fruitful — but again only if there is some meeting of minds on what is right and wrong.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

From the outset of her career, Katharine Cornell was a dedicated actress. When she played in "Anthony and Cleopatra" in Buffalo, her home town, she performed her death scene perfectly, then lay motionless on the stage for several minutes while others of the cast delivered their final lines.

Later, in Miss Cornell's dressing room, a friend commented, "Kit was superb in her last scene. When she was supposed to be dead she never moved a muscle. You could only tell by the slight tremor of her chest that she was alive at all."

Miss Cornell's father cautioned, "Please, please! Don't let Kit hear you—or tomorrow night she'll stop breathing!"

Hugh O'Brian, TV's "Wyatt Earp," told a girl in the cast, "I'm spending my vacation this year in the Canadian Rockies. I've always wanted to see Lake Louise and Baniff."

"Sounds great," agreed the girl, "but how do you Banff?"

Venereal Disease Increasing Among Young People

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It was considered poor taste to mention syphilis and other venereal diseases in a family newspaper 25 years ago. My predecessor had different ideas. He wrote so much on the subject, the public became aroused, campaigns for blood tests were started and a full scale war against these disorders was undertaken.

In the pre-antibiotic days, treatment consisted of a long drawn out series of injections. Many received shots off and on for five years without being cured. Penicillin changed the picture completely; since 1943, when this wonder drug made its debut, the incidence of syphilis dropped 82 per cent.

Progress made us complacent. The younger generation is not as familiar with nor as awed by the disease as were their parents at a comparable age. As a result, the incidence among teenagers is rising. More than half the reported cases are in the 15-24 age group. We need to change our attitude toward venereal disease.

Syphilis has not been conquered and still is a major health problem in many states. A recent report describes its increase in 11 states. New outbreaks were reported in 19 states. The infection is most prevalent among mobile groups such as transient laborers and members of the armed forces.

Parents should show more interest in where and how their children are spending their leisure hours and with whom they are associating. Lectures on sex ought to include warnings concerning the hazards of venereal diseases. Every teen-ager and young adult must be impressed with the necessity for good treatment whenever a venereal disease develops. These young victims need help, not punishment.

The earlier the condition is detected, the better the response to treatment. Penicillin, for example, is 97 per cent effective in early syphilis. The penalty for neglect is severe and has lifelong complications. Fifty per cent of all untreated cases develop heart complications. The brain and blood vessels may become involved. Life expectancy is reduced at least 17 per cent.

TOMORROW: Key concepts of cancer origins.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Letters From Our Readers

Sir:

In the December 5 issue of your paper, there was an article by The Associated Press on the front page concerning the repeal of Prohibition 25 years ago. I couldn't help noticing how it was treated as a great triumph for our nation. Records prove that the late President Roosevelt was mistaken in his trusting statement concerning the repeal: "I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity." There is considerable proof that many of the American people have become excess users of alcoholic beverages since the repeal.

In a recent study, out of 1,000 cases of juvenile delinquency, 31 per cent came from homes in which one or both parents drank in excess. Edwin Sutherland, a renowned criminologist, after an extensive study of crime and alcohol, says that 50 per cent of murder victims are intoxicated at the time they are murdered. Other authorities estimate that 95 per cent of crimes committed in America are the result of drinking. The National Safety Council reports that of last year's traffic fatalities, about 58 per cent were caused by drivers under the influence of alcohol. Alcohol harms the health of an individual, shortens life, causes a weak resistance to disease and affects the brain. A large percentage of divorces are caused by the use of alcoholic beverages.

Many people value the tax money derived from the sale of liquors, but isn't it time for us to wake up to facts that show us that the combined cost of taking care of alcoholics, the loss of life on our highways, the broken homes, heartache and disease is too high a price for us to be paying to receive the tax money?

As the Christmas season is upon us, a time when we as a so-called Christian nation, should be honoring the birth of Christ, the liquor business is once again flourishing. Are we so blinded that we can continue to say about the drunkard, "If he wants to drink, that's his business"? Drinking is not a personal issue: it is a national issue, an issue touching all humanity.

We, as individuals and as a nation guided by God, should look at the results of increased alcoholism and realize that a very grave problem faces us. Certainly we do not want our beloved America to follow the pattern of other great nations which have been brought to defeat by drunkenness.

David Rockefeller Takes Criticism From Mexican Guide With A Smile

By Drew Pearson

MEXICO CITY—David Rockefeller, vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and brother of the Governor-elect of New York, was admiring the beautiful paintings in the Presidential Palace of Mexico.

A Mexican employe politely approached Rockefeller to help explain the paintings. Pointing to a mural by Diego Rivera depicting Mexico's struggle against the American oil companies, he said:

"There in the corner is John D. Rockefeller, the wicked capitalist."

The grandson of John D. smiled, did not reveal his identity. When he left, he handed the voluntary Mexican guide a tip.

Killing Our Friends

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos is the only Mexican president perhaps, in history, who didn't pluck feathers from the American eagle while campaigning for election. It's a sad commentary on U. S.-Mexican relations that thumbing your nose at Uncle Sam is the easiest way for a politician to win votes in Mexico.

Conversely, if you get too friendly to the USA you're dead politically. Too much praise in the American press killed Foreign Minster Ezequiel Padilla. Every time an American newspaper called him "the great friend of the United States" it made him that much less effective in his own country. Likewise with Espinosa de Monteiros, former Mexican ambassador in Washington.

Similar praise of Oswaldo Aranha, former foreign minister of Brazil, has hurt him politically. It's an unfortunate fact, but our best friends in Latin America can't be elected to office if they show their friendship for the "Colossus Of The North."

That's why it was both significant and courageous on the part of new President Lopez Mateos that he not only did not criticize the USA during his election campaign, but appointed quiet, steady Manuel Tello, Mexican ambassador to Washington, as his new foreign minister.

The new Mexican administration is expected to be pro-American in hemisphere matters but militant in protecting Mexican interests.

Mexican Merry-Go-Round

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived in Mexico City recently, after flying all night. When Ambassador Bob Hill suggested a siesta, she found herself too busy seeing Mexico. She spoke that night at 11:50, finished at 12:20, got back to the American embassy at 1 a. m., at which time she became so absorbed in a Mexican discussion with Ambassador Hill that she didn't go to bed until 2 a. m. Mrs. Roosevelt is 74 . . . Ambassador Hill, who was trained on Capitol Hill by the late Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, has become one of the most efficient envoys the United States has ever sent to a Latin-American country. Great tribute is paid him by Bill O'Dwyer, himself a much-loved ambassador. Hill has visited every state in the United States of Mexico, works long hours, handles his staff like a football team. His staff keeps hours that would make the average Latino shudder—9 a. m. to 6 p. m. There is no time off for afternoon siestas. Mexicans seldom dine until 9:30 or 10 p. m., and Mexican social events don't finish until one or two in the morning. But U. S. embassy officials turn up at work at 9 a. m. just the same . . . One of the first things Hill did when he took over the U. S. embassy was to promote Joe Grey, old friend and aide to the late Secretary of State Cordell Hull, to be minister-counselor. Because Grey had been favored by Hull, a Democrat, he had been shunted aside. Hill, a Republican, promoted him . . . They still talk of the late Ambassador Josephus Daniels in Mexico City with affection. He was Secretary of the Navy when the U. S. Navy shelled Tampico in 1917, despite which the Mexicans loved him. All of which shows that people forgive and forget. One man who especially loved Josephus was the cafe owner across the street from the American embassy. He became wealthy when guests invited to the bone-dry American embassy stopped in for a snifter before calling on Josephus. (Daniels is the man who abolished liquor from the American navy).

Left Behind

Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana has done more for Pan Americanism than any other member of the Senate, once even arranged a trip to the Indianapolis Speedway races for all Latin-American ambassadors.

But when Vice President Nixon picked the Senators to attend the Mexican inauguration as official delegates of the USA, he passed over Pan American friend Capehart, picked Sen. Tom Kuchel of California instead.

The Mexican government, remembering Capehart's stanch friendship for Latins, then invited the Senator from Indiana to come to Mexico City as its guest. Capehart came, meticulously attended official functions, including the call on new President Lopez Mateos. About 3,000 dignitaries stood in line to congratulate the new President. For two hours they stood. For two hours the new President shook hands.

Senator Kuchel, an official delegate of the USA, went through the line near the start. But Senator Capehart, the official guest of Mexico, was given a place near the end. Some shoved into line. But Capehart was patient. Finally, just as the Senator from Indiana got three feet from the tired President, an aide told him the show was over. The President left.

Amos In Mexico

The question that intrigued Mexican most of late is not the U. S. quota on copper and zinc, but why President Eisenhower sent Freeman Gosden, the "Amos" of Amos and Andy, to Mexico as an official delegate to the inauguration of President Lopez Mateos.

"Will he come in black face? . . . Should we send Cantinflas (comedian of 'Around The World In 80 Days') as special ambassador to the next American inauguration?" were some of the questions asked about the man who is Ike's golfing buddy and was picked by him—despite lifted State Department eyebrows—as a special envoy.

Godsden, however, behaved wtih dignity. All Mexicans who met him liked him. Some Americans, however, confused him with Milton Eisenhower. He, Milton and Ike look almost alike.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

War is a phenomenon that occurs when angry governments run out of words. Greed, pride and revenge are its components. We are living in a small anteroom in time where the threat of war is a daily tension. It is with us all the time, so much so that we are becoming numbed to fright. It will not go away and so, like children at a horror movie, we sit wide-eyed, just watching.

There are two ways to start a war: by accident or by design. In this decade, war would be unprofitable, even to the winners, and that is why most military men believe that it will not come soon. It could be started by accident—an ambassador shot by a maniac; a bluff from which there is no retreat; a small war running out of control; a plane destroyed in friendly territory.

If there are no accidental wars, then my guess would be that one will be started by design no later than 1970. It will be a food war. The populations of the nations are increasing so swiftly that some of the big ones will begin to feel the pinch of starvation within ten years. When that happens, either the people revolt or the government goes to war.

Fairfield Osborn, in his book "Our Plundered Planet," warned the people of the world that we are compelled to live off 18 inches of topsoil around the globe. From this 18 inches we get all of our food—from bread to steak. Man has abused his resources to the point where his topsoil is blown on the winds of the world, his oil and coal resources are depleted, and he talks hopefully of ersatz food as though science could invent a pill to take the place of milk and wheat.

Julian Huxley, a first-rank British scientist, says in Reader's Digest that there are too many people in the world. When the diminishing food sopply and the diminishing food supply and the growing population pass each must ensue.

The life span in the time of Christ was about 30 years. It is now 70. The tough truth is that, as medical science helps us to live longer, we tend to become consumers rather than producers. Fewer babies die. The world population was one billion only a hundred years ago. It is now two and a half billion and, as Huxley says, it increases like compound interest in a bank.

China's people now number 650 million. About 15,000,000 babies are born there every year. In 20 years, at this rate, there will be one billion Chinese. Which way will they run when food runs short? Already, according to a Time magazine report, General Mao has established communes where old people have a barracks of their own and, when they die, they are dropped into chemically treated fertilizer vats so that their bones will help to grow next year's rice.

The facts aren't palatable. They seldom are. If you locked ten men in a room, and there was no way out, and enough food was sent in for six, do you think that you would have trouble? No matter how peaceable the ten might be, the craving for sustenance would overcome the men and they would have to fight to the death.

We are in a room. The only way out of it is by death. Mr. Huxley, who is not a prophet of doom, has admitted that man may be approaching the zenith of his progress. In a decade or two, the scientific and cultural advances may be reversed. Because of lack of food and other resources, man may grow smaller and meaner; his better instincts will be stunted.

In that case, the have-nots will destroy the haves. It does not take hunger long to whittle a man down. In the Indian Ocean, a group of men and women in a lifeboat stood off hunger for two weeks before they began to draw lots to see which one should be sacrificed to feed the others. Before their ship was hit, all of them had been normal people.

Not long ago, we had a balance of good and evil. We had oil and water and coal and animals and trees. The balance has been upset. The United States in the last 40 years has used more oil and more metal than all the nations of the world in recorded history. The rest of the nations are almost as bad. Whole forest areas have been destroyed and deserts grow where once willows hung in graceful shade.

Sometimes I think that God must look down at us and shake His head.

They Say They're Against Sin

Freedom of thought, conscience, religion, opinion, expression . . . ownership of property . . . education . . . economic security and adequate living standards . . . equality before the law . . . labor union membership . . . equal pay for equal work . . . asylum in other lands. These are among the rights every individual ought to enjoy, says the Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the U.N. General Assembly 10 years ago today.

And what should every individual be guaranteed against? Among other things, slavery or servitude . . . torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment . . . arbitrary arrest, detention, exile, interference with privacy . . . attacks upon honor and reputation . . . . discrimination.

As will be seen, the liberties specified in our own Constitution are pretty well covered. These are primarily political and civil. The 1948 Declaration, like the Four Freedoms enunciated by President F. D. Roosevelt in his 1941 annual message to Congress (of speech, of worship, from want, from fear), is also economic and social.

The Declaration was adopted unanimously although the Soviet bloc abstained from voting because, if you please, freedom from fascism was not specified! Also abstaining: Yugoslavia (another Communist state), South Africa (racial superiority complex), Saudi Arabia (slavery prevalent).

As almost everybody is against Sin, almost every nation is for the Declaration in principle. But after 11 years of wrestling with details, a U.N. committee still is unable to spell out a Human Rights treaty that wouldn't tread on too many toes. All the same, as with the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, the Beatitudes, there can be inspiration in the Declaration as an ideal, and many American communities honor Human Rights Day on December 10.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Berlin

Since Nikita Khrushchev has taken over the management of the Soviet Universal State, he has faced the West with a series of crises, one following upon the other with breathless haste. He has demonstrated his skill not only by the speed with which he manages each crisis in different parts of the world but also by his ability to bring about diverse attitudes among Russia's opponents, thus engendering confusion in their ranks. Actually, Soviet Russia stays out of many of these situations, using her satellites.

This, thus far, is not appearing in the Berlin crisis. On this subject, Khrushchev finds the West united. In fact, he is faced by the dramatic success of de Gaulle in France and the even more dramatic co-operation of France and West Germany. Whereas, Stalin, to a degree, found a means of stimulating a sharp division between the United States and Great Britain over the recognition of Red China, Khrushchev now finds the United States and Great Britain closer together than they have ever been.

Berlin presents a curious facade. West Berlin has grown back into a modern city, beautiful, prosperous, well-kept; East Berlin is a poverty-stricken, almost Orientalized Soviet city. The inhabitants are the same people, often members of the same families. In the instance of West Berlin, all the artistry and skill which made Germany so great have returned; in the case of East Berlin, these seem to have been lost in the repressions of Soviet life.

Berlin has then become a show-case, a show-case of contrasts. The result has been a constant and increasing migration of Germans from East to West Berlin.

Now, Khrushchev has given the United States, Great Britain and France a six months' ultimatum to get out of Berlin. It is true that he also offers to withdraw Russian troops but that is a hoax because what it would actually mean would be that Soviet troops would surround Berlin on three sides and that Sovietized troops would be inside Berlin, wearing East German uniforms and frightening the people into obedience to the Kremlin.

Such an attitude is not unnatural with the leaders of governments that are relatively new in history though it should not be surprising when a whole ideology contrary to what the rest of the world has hitherto followed is being espoused.

Mr. Humphrey came away with the feeling that the areas of agreement at present are few. Certainly the episode indicates that, while "Summit" Conferences may have some good points for reasons of showmanship or propaganda, private talks without benefit of klieg lights and an observing army of newsmen are perhaps more useful. Mr. Khrushchev welcomes such contacts and has had several with Americans—among them Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Producers' Association, and Adlai Stevenson. There can be under such circumstances a give-and-take in discussion which is not always possible when ambassadors confer with a premier or a president and every word can be regarded as an official commitment. Informal contacts can indeed be fruitful — but again only if there is some meeting of minds on what is right and wrong.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

From the outset of her career, Katharine Cornell was a dedicated actress. When she played in "Anthony and Cleopatra" in Buffalo, her home town, she performed her death scene perfectly, then lay motionless on the stage for several minutes while others of the cast delivered their final lines.

Later, in Miss Cornell's dressing room, a friend commented, "Kit was superb in her last scene. When she was supposed to be dead she never moved a muscle. You could only tell by the slight tremor of her chest that she was alive at all."

Miss Cornell's father cautioned, "Please, please! Don't let Kit hear you—or tomorrow night she'll stop breathing!"

Hugh O'Brian, TV's "Wyatt Earp," told a girl in the cast, "I'm spending my vacation this year in the Canadian Rockies. I've always wanted to see Lake Louise and Baniff."

"Sounds great," agreed the girl, "but how do you Banff?"

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It was considered poor taste to mention syphilis and other venereal diseases in a family newspaper 25 years ago. My predecessor had different ideas. He wrote so much on the subject, the public became aroused, campaigns for blood tests were started and a full scale war against these disorders was undertaken.

In the pre-antibiotic days, treatment consisted of a long drawn out series of injections. Many received shots off and on for five years without being cured. Penicillin changed the picture completely; since 1943, when this wonder drug made its debut, the incidence of syphilis dropped 82 per cent.

Progress made us complacent. The younger generation is not as familiar with nor as awed by the disease as were their parents at a comparable age. As a result, the incidence among teenagers is rising. More than half the reported cases are in the 15-24 age group. We need to change our attitude toward venereal disease.

Syphilis has not been conquered and still is a major health problem in many states. A recent report describes its increase in 11 states. New outbreaks were reported in 19 states. The infection is most prevalent among mobile groups such as transient laborers and members of the armed forces.

Parents should show more interest in where and how their children are spending their leisure hours and with whom they are associating. Lectures on sex ought to include warnings concerning the hazards of venereal diseases. Every teen-ager and young adult must be impressed with the necessity for good treatment whenever a venereal disease develops. These young victims need help, not punishment.

The earlier the condition is detected, the better the response to treatment. Penicillin, for example, is 97 per cent effective in early syphilis. The penalty for neglect is severe and has lifelong complications. Fifty per cent of all untreated cases develop heart complications. The brain and blood vessels may become involved. Life expectancy is reduced at least 17 per cent.

TOMORROW: Many concepts of cancer origins.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Letters From Our Readers

Sir:

In the December 5 issue of your paper, there was an article by The Associated Press on the front page concerning the repeal of Prohibition 25 years ago. I couldn't help noticing how it was treated as a great triumph for our nation. Records prove that the late President Roosevelt was mistaken in his trusting statement concerning the repeal: "I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity." There is considerable proof that many of the American people have become excess users of alcoholic beverages since the repeal.

In a recent study, out of 1,000 cases of juvenile delinquency, 31 per cent came from homes in which one or both parents drank in excess. Edwin Sutherland, a renowned criminologist, after an extensive study of crime and alcohol, says that 50 per cent of murder victims are intoxicated at the time they are murdered. Other authorities estimate that 95 per cent of crimes committed in America are the result of drinking. The National Safety Council reports that of last year's traffic fatalities, about 58 per cent were caused by drivers under the influence of alcohol. Alcohol harms the health of an individual, shortens life, causes a weak resistance to disease and affects the brain. A large percentage of divorces are caused by the use of alcoholic beverages.

Many people value the tax money derived from the sale of liquors, but isn't it time for us to wake up to facts that show us that the combined cost of taking care of alcoholics, the loss of life on our highways, the broken homes, heartache and disease is too high a price for us to be paying to receive the tax money?

As the Christmas season is upon us, a time when we as a so-called Christian nation, should be honoring the birth of Christ, the liquor business is once again flourishing. Are we so blinded that we can continue to say about the drunkard, "If he wants to drink, that's his business"? Drinking is not a personal issue: it is a national issue, an issue touching all humanity.

We, as individuals and as a nation guided by God, should look at the results of increased alcoholism and realize that a very grave problem faces us. Certainly we do not want our beloved America to follow the pattern of other great nations which have been brought to defeat by drunkenness.

David Rockefeller Takes Criticism From Mexican Guide With A Smile

By Drew Pearson

MEXICO CITY—David Rockefeller, vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and brother of the Governor-elect of New York, was admiring the beautiful paintings in the Presidential Palace of Mexico.

A Mexican employe politely approached Rockefeller to help explain the paintings. Pointing to a mural by Diego Rivera depicting Mexico's struggle against the American oil companies, he said:

"There in the corner is John D. Rockefeller, the wicked capitalist."

The grandson of John D. smiled, did not reveal his identity. When he left, he handed the voluntary Mexican guide a tip.

Killing Our Friends

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos is the only Mexican president perhaps, in history, who didn't pluck feathers from the American eagle while campaigning for election. It's a sad commentary on U. S.-Mexican relations that thumbing your nose at Uncle Sam is the easiest way for a politician to win votes in Mexico.

Conversely, if you get too friendly to the USA you're dead politically. Too much praise in the American press killed Foreign Minster Ezequiel Padilla. Every time an American newspaper called him "the great friend of the United States" it made him that much less effective in his own country. Likewise with Espinosa de Monteiros, former Mexican ambassador in Washington.

Similar praise of Oswaldo Aranha, former foreign minister of Brazil, has hurt him politically. It's an unfortunate fact, but our best friends in Latin America can't be elected to office if they show their friendship for the "Colossus Of The North."

That's why it was both significant and courageous on the part of new President Lopez Mateos that he not only did not criticize the USA during his election campaign, but appointed quiet, steady Manuel Tello, Mexican ambassador to Washington, as his new foreign minister.

The new Mexican administration is expected to be pro-American in hemisphere matters but militant in protecting Mexican interests.

Mexican Merry-Go-Round

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived in Mexico City recently, after flying all night. When Ambassador Bob Hill suggested a siesta, she found herself too busy seeing Mexico. She spoke that night at 11:50, finished at 12:20, got back to the American embassy at 1 a. m., at which time she became so absorbed in a Mexican discussion with Ambassador Hill that she didn't go to bed until 2 a. m. Mrs. Roosevelt is 74 . . . Ambassador Hill, who was trained on Capitol Hill by the late Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, has become one of the most efficient envoys the United States has ever sent to a Latin-American country. Great tribute is paid him by Bill O'Dwyer, himself a much-loved ambassador. Hill has visited every state in the United States of Mexico, works long hours, handles his staff like a football team. His staff keeps hours that would make the average Latino shudder—9 a. m. to 6 p. m. There is no time off for afternoon siestas. Mexicans seldom dine until 9:30 or 10 p. m., and Mexican social events don't finish until one or two in the morning. But U. S. embassy officials turn up at work at 9 a. m. just the same . . . One of the first things Hill did when he took over the U. S. embassy was to promote Joe Grey, old friend and aide to the late Secretary of State Cordell Hull, to be minister-counselor. Because Grey had been favored by Hull, a Democrat, he had been shunted aside. Hill, a Republican, promoted him . . . They still talk of the late Ambassador Josephus Daniels in Mexico City with affection. He was Secretary of the Navy when the U. S. Navy shelled Tampico in 1917, despite which the Mexicans loved him. All of which shows that people forgive and forget. One man who especially loved Josephus was the cafe owner across the street from the American embassy. He became wealthy when guests invited to the bone-dry American embassy stopped in for a snifter before calling on Josephus. (Daniels is the man who abolished liquor from the American navy).

Left Behind

Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana has done more for Pan Americanism than any other member of the Senate, once even arranged a trip to the Indianapolis Speedway races for all Latin-American ambassadors.

But when Vice President Nixon picked the Senators to attend the Mexican inauguration as official delegates of the USA, he passed over Pan American friend Capehart, picked Sen. Tom Kuchel of California instead.

The Mexican government, remembering Capehart's stanch friendship for Latins, then invited the Senator from Indiana to come to Mexico City as its guest. Capehart came, meticulously attended official functions, including the call on new President Lopez Mateos. About 3,000 dignitaries stood in line to congratulate the new President. For two hours they stood. For two hours the new President shook hands.

Senator Kuchel, an official delegate of the USA, went through the line near the start. But Senator Capehart, the official guest of Mexico, was given a place near the end. Some shoved into line. But Capehart was patient. Finally, just as the Senator from Indiana got three feet from the tired President, an aide told him the show was over. The President left.

Amos In Mexico

The question that intrigued Mexican most of late is not the U. S. quota on copper and zinc, but why President Eisenhower sent Freeman Gosden, the "Amos" of Amos and Andy, to Mexico as an official delegate to the inauguration of President Lopez Mateos.

"Will he come in black face? . . . Should we send Cantinflas (comedian of 'Around The World In 80 Days') as special ambassador to the next American inauguration?" were some of the questions asked about the man who is Ike's golfing buddy and was picked by him—despite lifted State Department eyebrows—as a special envoy.

Godsden, however, behaved wtih dignity. All Mexicans who met him liked him. Some Americans, however, confused him with Milton Eisenhower. He, Milton and Ike look almost alike.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

War is a phenomenon that occurs when angry governments run out of words. Greed, pride and revenge are its components. We are living in a small anteroom in time where the threat of war is a daily tension. It is with us all the time, so much so that we are becoming numbed to fright. It will not go away and so, like children at a horror movie, we sit wide-eyed, just watching.

There are two ways to start a war: by accident or by design. In this decade, war would be unprofitable, even to the winners, and that is why most military men believe that it will not come soon. It could be started by accident—an ambassador shot by a maniac; a bluff from which there is no retreat; a small war running out of control; a plane destroyed in friendly territory.

If there are no accidental wars, then my guess would be that one will be started by design no later than 1970. It will be a food war. The populations of the nations are increasing so swiftly that some of the big ones will begin to feel the pinch of starvation within ten years. When that happens, either the people revolt or the government goes to war.

Fairfield Osborn, in his book "Our Plundered Planet," warned the people of the world that we are compelled to live off 18 inches of topsoil around the globe. From this 18 inches we get all of our food—from bread to steak. Man has abused his resources to the point where his topsoil is blown on the winds of the world, his oil and coal resources are depleted, and he talks hopefully of ersatz food as though science could invent a pill to take the place of milk and wheat.

Julian Huxley, a first-rank British scientist, says in Reader's Digest that there are too many people in the world. When the diminishing food sopply and the diminishing food supply and the growing population pass each must ensue.

The life span in the time of Christ was about 30 years. It is now 70. The tough truth is that, as medical science helps us to live longer, we tend to become consumers rather than producers. Fewer babies die. The world population was one billion only a hundred years ago. It is now two and a half billion and, as Huxley says, it increases like compound interest in a bank.

China's people now number 650 million. About 15,000,000 babies are born there every year. In 20 years, at this rate, there will be one billion Chinese. Which way will they run when food runs short? Already, according to a Time magazine report, General Mao has established communes where old people have a barracks of their own and, when they die, they are dropped into chemically treated fertilizer vats so that their bones will help to grow next year's rice.

The facts aren't palatable. They seldom are. If you locked ten men in a room, and there was no way out, and enough food was sent in for six, do you think that you would have trouble? No matter how peaceable the ten might be, the craving for sustenance would overcome the men and they would have to fight to the death.

We are in a room. The only way out of it is by death. Mr. Huxley, who is not a prophet of doom, has admitted that man may be approaching the zenith of his progress. In a decade or two, the scientific and cultural advances may be reversed. Because of lack of food and other resources, man may grow smaller and meaner; his better instincts will be stunted.

In that case, the have-nots will destroy the haves. It does not take hunger long to whittle a man down. In the Indian Ocean, a group of men and women in a lifeboat stood off hunger for two weeks before they began to draw lots to see which one should be sacrificed to feed the others. Before their ship was hit, all of them had been normal people.

Not long ago, we had a balance of good and evil. We had oil and water and coal and animals and trees. The balance has been upset. The United States in the last 40 years has used more oil and more metal than all the nations of the world in recorded history. The rest of the nations are almost as bad. Whole forest areas have been destroyed and deserts grow where once willows hung in graceful shade.

Sometimes I think that God must look down at us and shake His head.

City Wants Meeting With County

Cumberland's Mayor and Council is requesting meetings with the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and the Town of Ridgeley on city and mutual interest subjects.

Among subjects expected to be approached at any session with county officials are these:

The city would like to receive some financial support from the county for the Fire Department. It bases this case upon the fact that the county contributes funds to all volunteer fireman units while the City of Cumberland must pay for the full cost of its department.

The city also desires to erase its $2,500 contribution annually to Juvenile Court which, a spokesman said, is strictly a county operation.

Also to be discussed is the road leading to the city's dump on Oldtown Road. Council wants to determine if the road is included in the county system and if the county intends to maintain it.

One of the questions to be aired with the County Delegation is the possibility of the proposed mobile library plan going into operation. Should this be approved, council will claim that it should no longer give an annual appropriation to the Cumberland Free Public Library since the mobile plan will make it a county program.

The city is also interested in reclaiming office space in the Public Safety Building and space used for clinics by the Health Department in the basement of City Hall. The city receives no remuneration for the offices or clinics despite the fact the health program is a county-state operation.

City officials have said that with municipal affairs expanding, there is a need for additional office and storage space and those being utilized by the health agency could be used to relieve the situation.

This will be discussed with both the county and County Delegation in all probability.

The meeting with Ridgeley officials will be concerned mostly with flood control. The city wants to know what Ridgeley intends to do about $10,000 it owes Cumberland on construction cost of the Cumberland-Ridgeley protection project.

Ridgeley will be asked to assume its share of maintenance of the flood control project. It will be asked that this be based upon assessable property and the same charge made to taxpayers in Ridgeley as it is in Cumberland.

Truck Drivers Charged In Fatal Crash

Two men have been charged in connection with the eight-vehicle smashup November 26 in the Allegheny Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Turnpike Police at Everett said yesterday that summary violations have been placed against Sharpless F. Randess, of Phoenixville, driver of the tractor-trailer that triggered the mishap, and W. Lloyd Feight Jr., 18, of Everett, who was driving a truck which was involved in the accident.

The panel truck that Andress' rig sideswiped started the chain reaction that piled up eight vehicles, five of which were engulfed in flames. Burned to death in one of the vehicles were George W. Petrie, Jr., 70, and his wife, Mabel, 67, of Oakmont.

Police did not give detailed information on the summary violation being filed against Feight, who was injured in the mishap. The wrecker truck Feight was driving was towing a disabled truck. It was following the Petrie car through the tunnel.

Any other action, police said will depend on the coroner's inquest.

Final Payment Made To County By Maplehurst

A check for $4,251.58 was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by James S. Getty, representing the Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg, for payment of a road project.

This represents the full and final payment to the county for the surfacing of a roadway giving access to the club's property near Frostburg. Two installments of $500 each were paid previously.

Walter R. Anthony, club treasurer, said the money for the payment of the road work had been placed in a special fund for that purpose some months ago. The road was built in the summer of 1956.

Delay in settlement, however, had arisen because there was a considerable difference between the estimates originally given for the cost of the surfacing and the most recent statement from the county for $5,251.58.

The directors of Maplehurst had assumed the confusion concerning several hundred dollars paid directly by the club for materials obtained from outside suppliers had caused the error.

Anthony said the $5,991 figure had not been disclosed until the meeting of the board last Friday. Getty asked the commissioners at that time for further consideration of this unexpectedly large sum. He also wanted time to determine the exact amount due.

The difference of $739.42, according to Anthony, was for pipe and stone paid directly to the supplier by the Maplehurst Club.

At yesterday's session Getty thanked the commissioners for their cooperation. He said Maplehurst, as a community project, had attracted residents to this area and had enabled Frostburg State Teachers College to offer golfing among its catalog of activities available.

Ike News Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will hold a news conference at 10:30 a.m. e.s.t. Wednesday, the White House said Monday.

Volunteers Sought To Aid With Surplus Food

Grant Wiebel, supervisor of the surplus food program for Allegany County, yesterday requested the County Board of Commissioners to provide clerical help in having 3,500 applications for food typed.

The commissioners discussed the entire surplus food distribution program yesterday and said it is imperative that the foodstuffs should be distributed before Christmas.

The county needs volunteers to help with the typing work and also to help bag 40,000 pounds of rice into two, four and six pound sacks. The county received the rice in 100 pound bags and it must be rebagged for allotment to the recipients.

Wiebel also reported that there are four foods on hand, butter, rice, cheese and dried milk and that a shipment of cornmeal is on the way. At any rate, the four mentioned foods on hand will be ready for distribution.

Any one who is interested in volunteering to help with either the typing or bagging of the rice can contact Wiebel at PA 4-9347.

There are approximately 600 applications which must be processed. The 3,500 applications which have been completed will be handled so that the certificates for the eligible persons can be mailed out soon.

The commissioners said that this work must be completed as soon as possible so the distribution can be started. The cost of storing the butter and cheese in cold storage is costly and the expense of warehousing the non-perishable foods is also rather heavy, the board pointed out.

Contracts Let For St. Luke's New Church

The congregation of St. Luke's Lutheran Church has awarded three separate contracts for construction, electrical work and installation of stained glass window in a new church on Frederick Street, it was announced yesterday by Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor.

Rev. Snyder said the Hazelwood Construction Company has been awarded the main contract to build the new edifice on its bid of $354,000.

The Sterling Electric Company was awarded the contract to do all the wiring and electrical work for $32,000 while the Willet Studio of Philadelphia will install the stained glass windows for $17,500.

Rev. Snyder said the stained glass windows are being paid for by John Hilderbrandt, of Akron, Ohio, in memory of his confirmation class of 1904. The stained windows of the church will be a feature of the contemporary design. Each of the seven windows will be 23 feet high and three feet wide. They are placed at the rear of the altar and will provide a beautiful pattern from light shining from the outside, Rev. Snyder said.

Work on the new church is expected to be started soon. Materials will be ordered this month and actual construction will follow completion of the foundation excavation work, Rev. Snyder said.

This represents the full and final payment to the county for the surfacing of a roadway giving access to the club's property near Frostburg. Two installments of $500 each were paid previously.

Walter R. Anthony, club treasurer, said the money for the payment of the road work had been placed in a special fund for that purpose some months ago. The road was built in the summer of 1956.

Delay in settlement, however, had arisen because there was a considerable difference between the estimates originally given for the cost of the surfacing and the most recent statement from the county for $5,251.58.

The directors of Maplehurst had assumed the confusion concerning several hundred dollars paid directly by the club for materials obtained from outside suppliers had caused the error.

Anthony said the $5,991 figure had not been disclosed until the meeting of the board last Friday. Getty asked the commissioners at that time for further consideration of this unexpectedly large sum. He also wanted time to determine the exact amount due.

The difference of $739.42, according to Anthony, was for pipe and stone paid directly to the supplier by the Maplehurst Club.

At yesterday's session Getty thanked the commissioners for their cooperation. He said Maplehurst, as a community project, had attracted residents to this area and had enabled Frostburg State Teachers College to offer golfing among its catalog of activities available.

Contracts Let For St. Luke's New Church

The congregation of St. Luke's Lutheran Church has awarded three separate contracts for construction, electrical work and installation of stained glass window in a new church on Frederick Street, it was announced yesterday by Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor.

Rev. Snyder said the Hazelwood Construction Company has been awarded the main contract to build the new edifice on its bid of $354,000.

The Sterling Electric Company was awarded the contract to do all the wiring and electrical work for $32,000 while the Willet Studio of Philadelphia will install the stained glass windows for $17,500.

Rev. Snyder said the stained glass windows are being paid for by John Hilderbrandt, of Akron, Ohio, in memory of his confirmation class of 1904. The stained windows of the church will be a feature of the contemporary design. Each of the seven windows will be 23 feet high and three feet wide. They are placed at the rear of the altar and will provide a beautiful pattern from light shining from the outside, Rev. Snyder said.

Work on the new church is expected to be started soon. Materials will be ordered this month and actual construction will follow completion of the foundation excavation work, Rev. Snyder said.

Brush Fire Extinguished

The Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company extinguished a brush fire at noon yesterday on Oldtown Road. Ten men answered the alarm.

Each person in the United States uses an average of 2½ medical prescriptions a year.

Volunteers Sought To Aid With Surplus Food

Grant Wiebel, supervisor of the surplus food program for Allegany County, yesterday requested the County Board of Commissioners to provide clerical help in having 3,500 applications for food typed.

The commissioners discussed the entire surplus food distribution program yesterday and said it is imperative that the foodstuffs should be distributed before Christmas.

The county needs volunteers to help with the typing work and also to help bag 40,000 pounds of rice into two, four and six pound sacks. The county received the rice in 100 pound bags and it must be rebagged for allotment to the recipients.

Wiebel also reported that there are four foods on hand, butter, rice, cheese and dried milk and that a shipment of cornmeal is on the way. At any rate, the four mentioned foods on hand will be ready for distribution.

Any one who is interested in volunteering to help with either the typing or bagging of the rice can contact Wiebel at PA 4-9347.

There are approximately 600 applications which must be processed. The 3,500 applications which have been completed will be handled so that the certificates for the eligible persons can be mailed out soon.

The commissioners said that this work must be completed as soon as possible so the distribution can be started. The cost of storing the butter and cheese in cold storage is costly and the expense of warehousing the non-perishable foods is also rather heavy, the board pointed out.

Lions Suffer First Loss; Tippy Metts Makes 16 Points

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Valley High's Black Knights rolled to their second consecutive cage victory in as many outings last night and abruptly halted the two-game undefeated string of Piedmont High with a 49-46 triumph over the Lions here last night.

Valley, once again gaining an early reputation as one of the area's top quints, led at the end of every quarter but the Lions of Coach William "Huck" Miers managed to keep within close range up to the final whistle.

Piedmont had been victorious over Elk Garden and Southern in its previous starts while Johnny Myers Detmolders routed LaSalle's Explorers in their only other performance.

The Black Knights copped last night's decision by out-producing the Lions in the field goal department. Valley rang up 20 two-pointers to Piedmont's 18, but were out-scored from the free throw line, 10 to nine.

The Knights were paced from the field by "Tippy" Metts who sank seven twin-markers and two foul shots in as many tries. Hank Winner, senior center, ably assisted with 12 points as did four-year veteran George Lauder, who garnered 10.

Joe "Goose" Taylor rang up a total of 19 tallies for Piedmont to capture the evening's scoring laurels. Teammate D. T. Twyman was the only other Lion cager to hit the double figures, getting 10.

The Piedmont junior varsity gained a split for its school by defeating Valley's JVs in the preliminary game, 30-22.

Knights Cop 49-46 Battle In Piedmont

Lions Suffer First Loss; Tippy Metts Makes 16 Points

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Valley High's Black Knights rolled to their second consecutive cage victory in as many outings last night and abruptly halted the two-game undefeated string of Piedmont High with a 49-46 triumph over the Lions here last night.

Valley, once again gaining an early reputation as one of the area's top quints, led at the end of every quarter but the Lions of Coach William "Huck" Miers managed to keep within close range up to the final whistle.

Piedmont had been victorious over Elk Garden and Southern in its previous starts while Johnny Myers Detmolders routed LaSalle's Explorers in their only other performance.

The Black Knights copped last night's decision by out-producing the Lions in the field goal department. Valley rang up 20 two-pointers to Piedmont's 18, but were out-scored from the free throw line, 10 to nine.

The Knights were paced from the field by "Tippy" Metts who sank seven twin-markers and two foul shots in as many tries. Hank Winner, senior center, ably assisted with 12 points as did four-year veteran George Lauder, who garnered 10.

Joe "Goose" Taylor rang up a total of 19 tallies for Piedmont to capture the evening's scoring laurels. Teammate D. T. Twyman was the only other Lion cager to hit the double figures, getting 10.

The Piedmont junior varsity gained a split for its school by defeating Valley's JVs in the preliminary game, 30-22.

Mont Resigns As Maryland Coach; Allegany Tests Hubs

Regents Fail To Renew His 3-Year Pact

Contract Expires January 31; Teams Won 11, Lost 18

By GEORGE E. BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Tommy Mont Tuesday resigned, apparently under pressure, as head football coach at the University of Maryland.

The resignation came only 24 hours after the athletic committee of the board of regents had met and discussed for five hours whether Mont's contract should be renewed. His three-year contract expires next Jan. 31.

Mont, married and the father of three sons, handed in the resignation this afternoon, then took his youngsters to a College Park Boys Club banquet in the university dining hall.

"I'll never apologize for the performance of my teams at Maryland," he said. "I regret leaving, but no matter what effort you make it all boils down to your won and lost record."

He said he had no immediate plans but would like to remain in coaching, even though "it is hard on my family."

"I'm a young coach and, I think, a good one," he added.

Announcement of his resignation was released by University President Wilson H. Elkins, who said it was submitted late Tuesday.

"The resignation was worked out in consultation with the board of regents and the president of the university and seemed in the best interest of all concerned," Dr. Elkins said.

TOMMY MONT

"Signing of a new coach will procede as rapidly as possible and the final decision will be made by the board of regents."

While no official reason was given for Maryland's failure to renew Mont's contract, it was assumed that poor season records were involved. Maryland, under Mont, had been able to win only 11 games while losing 18 and tying one.

Named Coach In 1956

Mont succeeded Jim Tatum in 1956. Tatum quit and went to North Carolina after coaching Maryland to three undefeated seasons, five bowl games and a national championship in 1953 during his nine years.

Mont was an assistant coach to Tatum after four years of playing professional football with the Washington Redskins. He is an alumnus of Maryland.

Archie Moore Defends Title Against Durelle

Light-Heavyweight Bout Is Scheduled Tonight In Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Durable Archie Moore, perhaps the oldest active champion in ring history, defends his world light - heavyweight crown for the seventh time Wednesday night against Canadian Yvon Durelle in a fight that could make Archie the all-time knockout king.

Moore, who will be either 45 or 42 on Saturday, is slated for 15 rounds against 29-year-old Durelle, burly champion of Canada and the British Empire, at the Montreal Forum.

Crafty, explosive Archie is favored at 13-5 to beat the awkward but persistent slugger from Baie Ste. Anne, New Brunswick, where the dark-haired challenger owns four commercial fishing boats.

The bout will be televised throughout the United States (ABC) and Canada (CBC) at 10 p.m. e.s.t., with a blackout in the province of Quebec.

It will be the first title scrap televised from another country into the United States.

Seeks 175th Victory

Montreal's first title fight in five years is expected to attract about 11,000 and $125,000, according to Promoter Eddie Quinn. A sellout, at $5 to $20, would require about 16,000 and $180,000. The Canadian records are 16,913 and $148,500 attracted outdoors by Moore and James J. Parmer at Toronto, Ont., July 25, 1956.

Moore of San Diego, Calif., will try to extend his unbeaten string to 16 bouts, which includes a draw in his last non-title fight fight with Howard Kirk on Aug. 4.

Ancient Archie, who protects himself with a barricade of arms and elbows as he stalks an opponent about the ring and blasts at openings, seeks his 175th victory and 127th knockout in 205 professional bouts.

Right now he is tied at 126 knockouts with the late W. L. (Young) Stribling for the all-time career total of kayoes. Number 127 Wednesday night would make Archie the kayo king.

Durelle Stopped 6 Times

Wild-hooking Durelle, who has belted out 39 of his 98 opponents while registering 76 victories, has been stopped six times—exactly the same number of kayoes suffered by Moore, now in his 23rd year of commercial leather tossing.

Webb Scores TKO In London Scrap

LONDON (AP) — Ellsworth (Spider) Webb of Chicago stopped Terry Downes, the British middleweight champion, after eight rounds of their bruising bout in Wembley Indoor Stadium Tuesday night.

Webb weighed 158½ pounds for the scheduled 10-rounder. Downes scaled 159½.

The 22-year-old Briton spurted blood from cuts above both eyes after a torrid fight that had the crowd of 10,000 roaring throughout.

Webb, the world's third-ranked contender for Ray Robinson's 160 pound title, was slightly ahead on points when British Referee Eugene Henderson terminated the fight at the end of the eighth round.

The Associated Press scorecard had Webb in front, three rounds to two with three even.

In the semifinal bout, Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn, N.Y., lost a 10-round decision to Percy Lewis of Trinidad, the British Empire featherweight champion.

The Henrymen split even with the Campers, winning at home, 46-39, and losing the return game here, 50-40.

North High lost Ed Spencer, who paced team in scoring in the CVAL with 100 points in ten games but Dick Spencer was the runner-up with 98, followed by Washington with 76, Ronnie Hawkins 74 and Vance 53. North High won 16 and lost 6 last season, Henry's ninth as cage mentor.

Last Saturday, the Hubs routed Hancock in a warm-up game at Hancock, 67-26.

Payne Must Rebuild

Scenery As An Actor

In the first "Naked City," a couple of young cop-killers were pursued through heavy city traffic into the Coliseum at Columbus Circle and up an escalator. In another one, a murderer on Welfare Island, the only island I know you can get on and off by elevator, gets chased through the lovely iron tracery of the Queensboro Bridge until he falls into the East River. In another one, the killers tried to fight their way up a curving staircase of a lighthouse on Execution Rock in Long Island Sound.

As you can readily perceive, the scenery in "Naked City" is its chief attraction. And a lucky thing, too, because frequently the acting and direction and even, of all things, the camerawork have an amateur air about them. What "Naked City" has got is pure exuberant enthusiasm. "If this human heart beat can be heard, every emotion is raw, exposed by the surgery of the night," declares the narrator passionately. In short, raw prose. "There are 8,000,000 stories in the naked city. This has been one of them."

The "Naked City," not to put too fine a point on it, is New York, which is always photogenic even at its most hideous. This sort of thing — using the picturesque background of a city as almost the leading character in the story — has been done before, of course, in series like "Foreign Intrigue," but in this case it determines not only the settings but the type of stories being shown. In one of them, for instance, a cop is locked in a psycho ward, simulating insanity, to try to run down a mad murderer. Or, as they say, real nervous.

Most of the tales are of that nature, galvanic, full of restless energy and restless prose, and occasional flashes of self-conscious humor. One of them, for example, opened with a hoodlum in a barber chair while the off-camera narrator talks about his "150 well-kept pounds." A couple of triggermen then enter and spray him full of machine-gun bullets and the narrator says cheerfully: "Now he weighs 152 well-kept pounds."

There are a couple of cops who appear regularly — one a youngster learning the ropes, the other an irritating old party, Irish, hammy and straight out of Central Casting. This aging leprechaun chews away on his pipe and emits what he imagines to be wisdom in a mellow voice that could easily drive any number of exasperated viewers (like me) to a life of crime.

Mostly, though, the participants look like they came straight off the streets, trailing authenticity and a sort of appealing innocence of all knowledge of acting. While amateur actors have charm, amateur cameramen don't. Again and again, the cameras get on the wrong side of the sun, reducing the actors to black smudges on the celluloid and I find this inexcusable.

With all its faults, I find "Naked City" pretty engaging fare. One reason is that it has been done with a little enthusiasm as opposed to the weary professionalism of so much filmed adventure stuff and, for another, surprisingly, there are stretches of very good writing in it. Already, it's beginning to snip away at the ratings of Red Skelton and Bob Cummings who are opposite it. While there may be 8,000,000 stories in New York, there aren't 8,000,000 scenic shots to set them against and the series is rapidly running through our available bridges and tenements and posh restaurants and street scenes. Already they've hit everything from the Belvedere Tower, the medieval structure on Manhattan's highest hill, to the Forum of the Twelve Caesars, to a Staten Island ferry. Is there much left?

From one of my spies in St. Petersburg, Fla., comes this intelligence: "A damned shame if you missed a little dialogue on 'Peter Gunn' the other night. After four years the con was free, meeting his old girl friend." What followed was substantially this:

Ex-con: What's the matter, Sally?

Sally: Four years. That's what's the matter.

Ex-con: We had something once, Sally.

Sally: It's gone, Cy.

Ex-con: It's not gone for me, Sally.

Sally: I know we had something once. At least I thought we had something. Maybe I was just fooling myself.

Ex-con: No, Sally. We had something.

Sally: Well, whatever it was, I lost it, Cy.

Ex-con: I didn't lose it, Sally.

A short time later the ex-con got shot and my St. Petersburg spy to this very day doesn't know what "it" was that the pair had once had. Some sort of disease, he figures.

Board Asks Sheriff For Data On Gas

Commissioner John Tucker Mason was checking over bills at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners when he spotted one from the sheriff's office for gasoline at 36 cents a gallon.

Mason said he did not see why the sheriff's office should pay the retail price for gas and that in any event regular and not high octane gasoline should have been purchased. He said the city buys gasoline in bulk and the cost to the city is somewhere around 14 cents per gallon.

Commissioner John J. Rowan also voiced his objection to the procedure. He asked the clerk to the board, James G. Stevenson, to request the sheriff, Edward R. Muir, to appear before the board at Friday's meeting to discuss the matter.

Commissioner William A. Wilson pointed out that the sheriff's office does have to pay retail prices on trips to the state prisons when transporting prisoners but agreed that for use in the county it should get the gasoline at the county garage.

Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, said the County Roads Department has pumps at the Franklin Street garage and gas is purchased in bulk.

Commissioner Rowan made it clear that the board wanted to discuss the matter with the sheriff and not one of his deputies.

"It's his department and he should be the one to handle the matter," Rowan added.

The commissioners agreed that each county department head must operate his unit with as much economy as possible.

Rowan and Mason, the two new board members are Democrats and they have made no secret of their intention of checking closely all county expenditures to eliminate any possible waste and inefficiency. Commissioner Wilson has agreed that economy must be observed to keep county costs at the absolute minimum.

Police Track Two Men In Hit-Run Case

A Maryland State Trooper and a member of the Frostburg Police Department resorted to the old "Wild West" tactics Sunday night in tracking down a hit-and-run accident case.

The trooper, Cpl. Harry S. Bosley, joined Sgt. Jack Kerr of Frostburg in the search for the driver of a car which had struck another vehicle on State Route 36 at Slabtown and left the scene.

When police arrived at the scene, Cpl. Bosley noticed a spot of grease and a tiny streak of oil leaving from the point of impact.

The trackdown followed along the Parkersburg Road, across new U.S. Route 40 towards Eckhart, up a back road to Hoffman, down a dirt road and back to Eckhart where the wanted car was spotted.

During the trackdown, Cpl. Bosley and Sgt. Kerr lost the trail of grease two or three times and had to get out of their car and search for the trail with flashlights.

After locating the arrow trail of oil the two officers would continue the search.

After locating the car, which was badly damaged on the left side, the officers arrested Raymond Spataro, Eckhart. He was charged with failing to stop after striking an unattended vehicle, reckless driving, and turning off his lights to avoid identification.

The motorist was taken before Magistrate Fred Crowe in Frostburg yesterday and found guilty on all counts. He was fined a total of $92.25.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—A youthful caller at my home, Barrie Chase, brought color into a dull day. She told me that she was hoping to get a part with director Frank Tashlin in "Say One For Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner. The very next day information came that Barrie had been given the role and will do a dance as well as act for 20th Century-Fox.

The Fred Astaire spectacular did much for Barrie in bringing her before the public. She will do his next spectacular, but Fred isn't of a mind to do more than one of these shows a year.

Barrie, who has the longest hair and wears it in a pony tail, told me that she wants to cut it and save the hair for a chignon.

Jill St. John flew East on the same plane with Bob Evans and since they are both alumni of 20th Century-Fox, Bob politely escorted Jill in New York town, including dinners at the Harwyn Club, El Morocco and "21" and a new play or two.

But Jill's real "heart," Lance Reventlow, arrived in the big town Tuesday—and that will end the dates with Bob where Jill is concerned. Lance is on cloud 9 since he won the speed race in Nassau and he was all over TV being interviewed with a big beam on his face.

Barbara Hutton, Lance's mother, is expected in New York from Europe very soon and you can bet that young Reventlow will arrange a meeting for his mother to meet his best girl.

Just before Tony Perkins took off for New York to spend Christmas with his mother he said that he's writing a three-act play revolving around the year and a half he spent as a licensed baby sitter during his college days in Florida. Tony's experiences in this department were climaxed when he became the favorite guardian of a great Dane.

He's going to work on the play following his trip to Australia early in January where he'll make "On the Beach" for Stanley Kramer.

In a 34-acre area, the Regent's park zoo in London holds seven thousand birds, beasts and fish. For the children of the British capital, there is a special play section, presided over by hostesses, where young visitors may mix freely with ponies, goats, rabbits, llamas, woolly lambs and other friendly inmates.

Board Asks Sheriff For Data On Gas

Commissioner John Tucker Mason was checking over bills at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners when he spotted one from the sheriff's office for gasoline at 36 cents a gallon.

Mason said he did not see why the sheriff's office should pay the retail price for gas and that in any event regular and not high octane gasoline should have been purchased. He said the city buys gasoline in bulk and the cost to the city is somewhere around 14 cents per gallon.

Commissioner John J. Rowan also voiced his objection to the procedure. He asked the clerk to the board, James G. Stevenson, to request the sheriff, Edward R. Muir, to appear before the board at Friday's meeting to discuss the matter.

Commissioner William A. Wilson pointed out that the sheriff's office does have to pay retail prices on trips to the state prisons when transporting prisoners but agreed that for use in the county it should get the gasoline at the county garage.

Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, said the County Roads Department has pumps at the Franklin Street garage and gas is purchased in bulk.

Commissioner Rowan made it clear that the board wanted to discuss the matter with the sheriff and not one of his deputies.

"It's his department and he should be the one to handle the matter," Rowan added.

The commissioners agreed that each county department head must operate his unit with as much economy as possible.

Rowan and Mason, the two new board members are Democrats and they have made no secret of their intention of checking closely all county expenditures to eliminate any possible waste and inefficiency. Commissioner Wilson has agreed that economy must be observed to keep county costs at the absolute minimum.

Salt was valued so highly in olden times that Roman soldiers were sometimes paid with discs of salt called "salarium" from which we derive the word "salary."

There are more miles of railroad track underground in the Pennsylvania coal mines than there are on the surface of the state.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—A youthful caller at my home, Barrie Chase, brought color into a dull day. She told me that she was hoping to get a part with director Frank Tashlin in "Say One For Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner. The very next day information came that Barrie had been given the role and will do a dance as well as act for 20th Century-Fox.

The Fred Astaire spectacular did much for Barrie in bringing her before the public. She will do his next spectacular, but Fred isn't of a mind to do more than one of these shows a year.

Barrie, who has the longest hair and wears it in a pony tail, told me that she wants to cut it and save the hair for a chignon.

Jill St. John flew East on the same plane with Bob Evans and since they are both alumni of 20th Century-Fox, Bob politely escorted Jill in New York town, including dinners at the Harwyn Club, El Morocco and "21" and a new play or two.

But Jill's real "heart," Lance Reventlow, arrived in the big town Tuesday—and that will end the dates with Bob where Jill is concerned. Lance is on cloud 9 since he won the speed race in Nassau and he was all over TV being interviewed with a big beam on his face.

Barbara Hutton, Lance's mother, is expected in New York from Europe very soon and you can bet that young Reventlow will arrange a meeting for his mother to meet his best girl.

Just before Tony Perkins took off for New York to spend Christmas with his mother he said that he's writing a three-act play revolving around the year and a half he spent as a licensed baby sitter during his college days in Florida. Tony's experiences in this department were climaxed when he became the favorite guardian of a great Dane.

He's going to work on the play following his trip to Australia early in January where he'll make "On the Beach" for Stanley Kramer.

In a 34-acre area, the Regent's park zoo in London holds seven thousand birds, beasts and fish. For the children of the British capital, there is a special play section, presided over by hostesses, where young visitors may mix freely with ponies, goats, rabbits, llamas, woolly lambs and other friendly inmates.

Police Track Two Men In Hit-Run Case

A Maryland State Trooper and a member of the Frostburg Police Department resorted to the old "Wild West" tactics Sunday night in tracking down a hit-and-run accident case.

When police arrived at the scene, Cpl. Bosley noticed a spot of grease and a tiny streak of oil leaving from the point of impact.

The trackdown followed along the Parkersburg Road, across new U.S. Route 40 towards Eckhart, up a back road to Hoffman, down a dirt road and back to Eckhart where the wanted car was spotted.

During the trackdown, Cpl. Bosley and Sgt. Kerr lost the trail of grease two or three times and had to get out of their car and search for the trail with flashlights.

After locating the car, which was badly damaged on the left side, the officers arrested Raymond Spataro, Eckhart. He was charged with failing to stop after striking an unattended vehicle, reckless driving, and turning off his lights to avoid identification.

The motorist was taken before Magistrate Fred Crowe in Frostburg yesterday and found guilty on all counts. He was fined a total of $92.25.

The king cobra is regarded as one of the most dangerous of all snakes. It lives in the Indo-Malayan area. Its main food is other snakes.

From one of my spies in St. Petersburg, Fla., comes this intelligence: "A damned shame if you missed a little dialogue on 'Peter Gunn' the other night. After four years the con was free, meeting his old girl friend." What followed was substantially this:

Ex-con: What's the matter, Sally?

Sally: Four years. That's what's the matter.

Ex-con: We had something once, Sally.

Sally: It's gone, Cy.

Ex-con: It's not gone for me, Sally.

Sally: I know we had something once. At least I thought we had something. Maybe I was just fooling myself.

Ex-con: No, Sally. We had something.

Sally: Well, whatever it was, I lost it, Cy.

Ex-con: I didn't lose it, Sally.

A short time later the ex-con got shot and my St. Petersburg spy to this very day doesn't know what "it" was that the pair had once had. Some sort of disease, he figures.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, J. Walter Barnhart, who passed away 4 years ago, December 10, 1954.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, J. Walter Barnhart, who passed away 4 years ago, December 10, 1954.
More and more each day we miss him;
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE, ELVA BARNHART
AND CHILDREN

WANTED to buy ads are just as effective as for sale ads. A small investment in an ad will probably find you just the article or property you need at a reasonable price.

JUST the facts Ma'am! That's what you should include in want ad. If it happens to take a few words more than the minimum don't worry about the small extra cost, it will be money well spent and the quickest way of getting information to your prospects.

Mr. Turf Wins Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — Qualifying for Saturday's $10,000-added Pimlico Cup, Jack J. Amiel's Mr. Turf ran the fastest mile and a sixteenth of the meeting—1:45 2/5—to win the $4,000 Stillpond Purse today at Pimlico Race Course.

Withheld from Saturday's $10,000-added Exterminator Handicap to go in this race, Mr. Turf won by four-and-a-half lengths to pay $6.80. He didn't seem to be completely extended by Jockey Bill Lester, despite his excellent time over a track marked only "good" by the chartmakers.

Howell E. Jackson's Cross Channel, another who passed up The Exterminator when he became a late scratch from Saturday's race, finished second at $4.40, about a length in front of Flamingo Farm's Madok, who had challenged Mr. Turf several times in the first six furlongs. Madok returned $3.80.

Mr. Turf Wins Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — Qualifying for Saturday's $10,000-added Pimlico Cup, Jack J. Amiel's Mr. Turf ran the fastest mile and a sixteenth of the meeting—1:45 2/5—to win the $4,000 Stillpond Purse today at Pimlico Race Course.

Withheld from Saturday's $10,000-added Exterminator Handicap to go in this race, Mr. Turf won by four-and-a-half lengths to pay $6.80. He didn't seem to be completely extended by Jockey Bill Lester, despite his excellent time over a track marked only "good" by the chartmakers.

Howell E. Jackson's Cross Channel, another who passed up The Exterminator when he became a late scratch from Saturday's race, finished second at $4.40, about a length in front of Flamingo Farm's Madok, who had challenged Mr. Turf several times in the first six furlongs. Madok returned $3.80.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat futures prices were heavy at the close on the Board of Trade Tuesday. The selling in wheat brought a decline in other grains.

Wheat closed off ⅞ to 1½ cents; corn (old) off ⅛ to ¼ cent; (new) off ¼ to up ⅛ cent; oats off ⅛ to ⅜ cent; rye off 1¼ to 1⅜ cents; soybeans off ½ to 1⅜ cents.

Wheat prices dipped a cent or more from Monday's close on a lagging demand for cash wheat and a less optimistic view of the export situation.

Rye moved in sympathy with wheat. The feed grains, which held steady in early trading, turned lower before the close. Selling orders predominated in the corn market and there also was some hedge selling.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Don't be a Miss In-Between. Emphasize your tendency towards smallness or height.

Slim dresses make you look taller, if they're softly fitted and slightly on the long side. You'll look small and delicate in full skirts, sheer gauzy fabrics and fluffy stoles.

Although much may be done to camouflage figure irregularities — for example, selecting costumes to create a certain illusion — your appearance will be more pleasing if the figure itself is well-proportioned. It can be.

No one can base his or her criterion for a beautiful figure on a definite weight or height. The important thing is the creation of good proportion between the height and weight, and a balance between the various girth measurements. It's only logical that the smaller a person, the narrower the width and thickness should be.

Bust and hips should measure the same; waist, 10 inches smaller. That's the "Rule of Ten" I often mention, the basis of ideal measurements. Do your statistics fall into this pattern? It's important that you examine your figure carefully, for a nicely proportioned figure is one of the 'Secrets of Charm'. Now don't confuse frame structure with bone structure. Our booklet, "Do You Measure Up," gives a measurement table and also tells you how to measure yourself (you'd be amazed at the errors made daily on this). If you would care to have a copy of this booklet, send 10 cents in coin to John Robert Powers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 NT.	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

Declarer was in too great a hurry to take a discard today and it cost him a slam contract.

South's slam bid was an unjustifiable display of virility and was brought on by his original cue bid which it should be observed was not exactly an act of reticence. South should have been happy to get out at five hearts when his partner gave him the chance.

West opened the jack of spades and declarer played the queen from dummy which held. In a hurry to dispose of a losing club, South cashed the ace of spades and from then on found it impossible to bring in the contract against careful discarding by the defense. He ran off all his trumps hoping to embarrass West. But West merely reduced to ace, jack of clubs and king, 7 of diamonds. While South held king and a small club and ace, queen of diamonds. East discreetly held on to all his clubs. Declarer played the king of clubs which West took and got out with the jack and declarer was left to the diamond finesse which he was forewarned would fail.

Had declarer not been so impatient in the matter of taking the club discard, he would have met with a happier fate. He should run all seven trumps at once, retaining in dummy, three clubs, the ace of spades and a diamond.

West has to bear down to three clubs and two diamonds. At this point South leads a low club and West has no choice but to duck, for going up with the ace would establish two club tricks for declarer. The queen of clubs holds the trick and the high spade is cashed as South disposes of a club. On this trick West feels the noose around his neck. If he parts with the jack of clubs, a club would put him in to force a lead into the ace, queen of diamonds. West's best chance is to blank down to the king of diamonds. Declarer can still guess the situation, but at least he will be made to work for his contract.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat futures prices were heavy at the close on the Board of Trade Tuesday. The selling in wheat brought a decline in other grains.

Wheat closed off ⅞ to 1½ cents; corn (old) off ⅛ to ¼ cent; (new) off ¼ to up ⅛ cent; oats off ⅛ to ⅜ cent; rye off 1¼ to 1⅜ cents; soybeans off ½ to 1⅜ cents.

Wheat prices dipped a cent or more from Monday's close on a lagging demand for cash wheat and a less optimistic view of the export situation.

Rye moved in sympathy with wheat. The feed grains, which held steady in early trading, turned lower before the close. Selling orders predominated in the corn market and there also was some hedge selling.

Soybeans also lost ground, with commission houses selling in a moderately active trade.

Grains at outside mrkets were mostly lower. The range:

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Don't be a Miss In-Between. Emphasize your tendency towards smallness or height.

Slim dresses make you look taller, if they're softly fitted and slightly on the long side. You'll look small and delicate in full skirts, sheer gauzy fabrics and fluffy stoles.

Although much may be done to camouflage figure irregularities — for example, selecting costumes to create a certain illusion — your appearance will be more pleasing if the figure itself is well-proportioned. It can be.

No one can base his or her criterion for a beautiful figure on a definite weight or height. The important thing is the creation of good proportion between the height and weight, and a balance between the various girth measurements. It's only logical that the smaller a person, the narrower the width and thickness should be.

Bust and hips should measure the same; waist, 10 inches smaller. That's the "Rule of Ten" I often mention, the basis of ideal measurements. Do your statistics fall into this pattern? It's important that you examine your figure carefully, for a nicely proportioned figure is one of the 'Secrets of Charm'. Now don't confuse frame structure with bone structure. Our booklet, "Do You Measure Up," gives a measurement table and also tells you how to measure yourself (you'd be amazed at the errors made daily on this). If you would care to have a copy of this booklet, send 10 cents in coin to John Robert Powers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 NT.	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

Declarer was in too great a hurry to take a discard today and it cost him a slam contract.

South's slam bid was an unjustifiable display of virility and was brought on by his original cue bid which it should be observed was not exactly an act of reticence. South should have been happy to get out at five hearts when his partner gave him the chance.

West opened the jack of spades and declarer played the queen from dummy which held. In a hurry to dispose of a losing club, South cashed the ace of spades and from then on found it impossible to bring in the contract against careful discarding by the defense. He ran off all his trumps hoping to embarrass West. But West merely reduced to ace, jack of clubs and king, 7 of diamonds. While South held king and a small club and ace, queen of diamonds. East discreetly held on to all his clubs. Declarer played the king of clubs which West took and got out with the jack and declarer was left to the diamond finesse which he was forewarned would fail.

Had declarer not been so impatient in the matter of taking the club discard, he would have met with a happier fate. He should run all seven trumps at once, retaining in dummy, three clubs, the ace of spades and a diamond.

West has to bear down to three clubs and two diamonds. At this point South leads a low club and West has no choice but to duck, for going up with the ace would establish two club tricks for declarer. The queen of clubs holds the trick and the high spade is cashed as South disposes of a club. On this trick West feels the noose around his neck. If he parts with the jack of clubs, a club would put him in to force a lead into the ace, queen of diamonds. West's best chance is to blank down to the king of diamonds. Declarer can still guess the situation, but at least he will be made to work for his contract.

Escapee From Jessup Sought In This Area

Edward Parsons Serving 18 Months

Edward Parsons, 24, of here, one of five prisoners who escaped yesterday from the Maryland House of Correction at Jessup, is believed to be in the Cumberland area.

Last night a man answering to his description was reported to have jumped from a car which had been stopped by Maryland State Police on U. S. Route 40 east of here. Prison clothes were found in the car, police said.

Police said the car had been stolen earlier in the evening at Hagerstown. The car was stopped by Trooper Harry Garcia who wanted to check on the driver's identity.

The man got out of the car and ran from the scene. Trooper Garcia was joined by other troopers in a search for him.

Shortly afterward, a car was reported stolen from the nearby Shrine Club.

Pry Window Open

Parsons, serving 18 months for unauthorized use of an auto, gained freedom from the institution yesterday when he and four other prisoners pried their way through a barred window and fled into a heavily-wooded area.

The other men were identified as Richard L. Spencer, 22, of Annapolis, six years for burglary; George W. Tyree, 30, of Baltimore, 10 years for robbery and carrying a deadly weapon; Raynold G. Lawlor, 32, Quebec, Canada, five years for burglary; and Donald C. Mohr, 30, of Baltimore, who escaped 11 years ago while serving a term at the State Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown. He was serving a 10-year sentence at the House of Correction for four burglaries.

Deputy Warden Joseph Deutsch said the men were not believed armed but they could be dangerous. He said the prisoners pried open a barred basement window with an iron pipe.

Search Called Off

They fled across a mile-wide open area. There were no trusties nearby and the House of Correction has no fence surrounding its prison buildings. The men, wearing blue denim uniforms, escaped into an area between Jessup and Dorsey near U. S. Route 1.

Guards took up the pursuit and a police dog from Fort George Meade was taken to the scene.

An intense manhunt through thick underbrush for the five fugitives was abandoned Tuesday night. A squad of 15 state troopers gave up at sundown and the search was replaced by a heavy patrol of roads in the area.

State police said they thought the men had either escaped the dragnet or were hiding in the woods, where they could not be seen at night.

Jobless Bill For Employers To Rise In '59

All Expected To Pay Maximum Rate

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's employment chief said Tuesday all employers in the state will be paying the maximum rate for unemployment insurance of their workers next year unless the 1959 Legislature enacts an emergency bill.

For some employers this would mean a 350 per cent increase over the rate they are now paying.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security, said department officials are preparing legislation to offer the General Assembly after it meets Jan. 7 in Annapolis.

State law provides for a fund from which unemployment insurance payments are made. Employers now feed this fund by paying from 0.6 to 2.7 per cent on the first $3,000 of each employe's annual wage.

How It Works

The less employe turnover in a business, the less employes of that business drain from the fund; so the operator of that business pays a lower percentage of his employes' salaries into the fund.

But, to make certain there is a reasonably safe amount in the fund to meet conditions of high unemployment, safeguards are set in the law to step up payments whenever the amount in the fund drops below certain marks. The law says the rate can run from 0.2 to 2.7 per cent, depending on an employer's personnel turnover and the amount in the fund. Because of the fund balance, however, the lowest being paid is 0.6 per cent.

But if the fund balance drops below 5 per cent of the taxable wage base, all employers are jumped to the 2.7 maximum, regardless of their personnel turnover.

Details To Be Worked Out

Kimble said the fund dropped from $115,853,000 last January to $82,368,000 last Oct. 1. The Oct 1 figure was only 4.95 per cent of the taxable wage base.

Details of legislation being prepared by Kimble and his advisers were still being worked out, a department spokesman said.

"But I feel reasonably safe in saying," Kimble was quoted, "that under this new plan most Marylanders will have a rate of less than 2 per cent."

He said the plan would preserve some of the advantages held by employers with lower personnel turnover, or experience rating, while protecting the solvency of the fund.

All fund payments are used for unemployment compensation. The money for the department's administrative and operating costs comes from the federal treasury.

County Is Asked To Back Boosts In Public Aid

Waxter Discusses Department Program

County legislators and officials yesterday were asked to support plans for a little better break for Maryland's needy.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, asked the Allegany County Commissioners and the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly to back the proposed legislative program of the department.

He said the department will ask the Legislature next year for the program which will cost slightly less than $3,000,000.

Mr. Waxter was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Allegany County Welfare Board, held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Guests included the Board of Allegany Commissioners, the Allegany County Delegation, State Senator Charles M. See and Juvenile Court Magistrate Fred H. Anderson.

Rates Are Compromise

J. William Hunt, chairman of the board, presided at the luncheon meeting. He pointed out the low standards under which present welfare recipients live and said the rate reflects a compromise between public needs and the pressure on the Legislature and County Commissioners against increased taxes.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the Welfare Board, was introduced by Mr. Hunt and was warmly praised by Mr. Waxter. She succeeded Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld several months ago.

Allegany County, Mr. Waxter said, is one of the high areas of dependency in Maryland with a dependency rate of 3.4 per cent in contrast to the state's 1.9 per cent.

But Allegany County's dependency, he added, has been going down steadily since 1950.

During November, he said, Allegany County had 578 persons on old age assistance. Two-thirds of the group, he said, were women with an average age of 73.

Assistance to the blind was provided for 23 residents of the county.

Help 336 Disabled

Aid was provided to 336 others who were totally disabled—most of them flat on their backs.

Help was also provided for about 400 dependent children.

No aid at all was available here, he said, for 103 disabled to the point they could not compete in today's labor market.

Maryland's relief load, Mr. Waxter reported, has gone down consistently since 1940.

He said the Department of Public Welfare will ask the 1959 Legislature to approve the following program:

Increased allowances for food to meet the increases in food costs and new food standards.

This would, he said, increase the food allowance for an elderly person on old age assistance from $21.50 to $31.50 a month.

For an old age assistance couple living in their own home the proposal would boost the monthly food allowance from $40 to $56.

The proposals, Mr. Waxter said, wuld boos the food allowances under aid to dependent children from $71.50 to $107.50 for a family composed of the mother, disabled father and three children.

Praises Delegation

At this point, he stressed that Senator See and the Allegany Delegation have backed the department's proposals 100 per cent in the Assembly.

Increases in allowances for foster care will also be asked, he said. At present, the home board rates for infants up to 12 is $35 and the department wants this

Sitters For Their Own Babies

For the second consecutive day, members of the Junior Woman's Civic Club were available for baby sitting service at the County Building on Union Street yesterday but not a single Christmas shopper brought her youngsters there to take advantage of the service. As a consequence, the only children they had to watch were their own. The three women, pictured left to right, are Mrs. Joseph Pellerzi, Mrs. K. O. Nelson and Mrs. E. L. Everhart. With them are Sandra Everhart and Beth Nelson. Club members hope there will be some response today for this new service offered at nominal cost. Proceeds will be used for CARE. The service is available from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each weekday and also 6 to 9 p. m. on Monday and Friday.

Luke Workers To Vote Today On Pact Offer

Report Meetings Are Well Attended

Reports on contract negotiations with West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company were presented to members of Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, yesterday.

Wilbur Johnson, Local 676 president, said about 815 of the local's 1,700 members attended the meetings held in the Welsh Theatre in Westernport.

A full report on the negotiations for a new contract at the Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., mills was presented by Harry Scott, area UPP director, and the negotiating committee. The negotiators included Charles Butler, first vice president; Edward Byron Green, second vice president; Leroy Imperio, third vice president, and Eldred Broadwater, recording secretary of the UPP.

Mr. Johnson said the negotiating committee made no recommendation, either way, on the Westvaco contract offer.

Members of the Luke local will hold a special election today by secret ballot for ratification or strike action.

Polls in the Devon Club, Luke, will be open today from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m., the negotiating committee reported.

Firemen To Meet With Delegation

The Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly will meet Thursday with the legislative committee of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, according to Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, chairman.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall and will be attended by the six newly elected delegates and State Senator Charles M. See.

Residential Red Lines To Be Erased

Most of the red and yellow lines painted on curbs in residential areas of the city will disappear under a policy announced by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

He said such lines, if unauthorized, will be painted black in accordance with a legal opinion requested of City Attorney William R. Carscaden.

The city attorney reported he had not checked all ordinances and orders on the subject and that, in his opinion, the City of Cumberland has no authority to place "red" or "yellow" lines in residential areas.

He added that the same rules and regulations apply to residential areas as in the business district and that curb parking regulations must be well marked so that all persons have reasonable notice of the regulations.

The ruling, he added, does not apply to fireplug areas, near street intersections and for bus stops.

The commissioner said the Police Department has been trying to eliminate special privileges under a policy of equal treatment for all.

Today Is Last For Applications

Today is the deadline for elderly property owners to apply for exemption on their 1959 Allegany County property taxes.

A measure introduced in 1957 by the late Delegate George F. S. Jeffrey allows exemption to all property owners above the age of 65 who live in the premises and have total income for husband and wife of less than $100 a month.

James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners, said yesterday that about 550 property owners have applied for this exemption. He will continue to accept applications until 4 p. m. today when the Court House closes. Mailed applications postmarked on or before midnight tonight also will be accepted.

Three Actions Cut Tax Basis By $17 Million

Nicholson Briefs New Commissioners

The new Allegany County Board of Commissioners held its first assessment hearing yesterday afternoon at the Court House and got a general briefing from Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, as to why Allegany County's assessable basis is about $158,000,000 instead of $175,000,000.

Three major pieces of tax exemption legislation enacted by the General Assembly in Annapolis and signed into law by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin have resulted in the exemption of about $17,000,000 in property from county real estate taxes.

The first of these measures, passed in 1951, for the purpose of encouragement and inducement of location, growth and development of new manufacturing, fabricating or assembling industries, factories and plants in Allegany County, granted exemption from all county and municipal taxation for a period of 10 years. It is Section 95 of the Public Local Laws of Allegany County.

Section 97 of the Public Local Laws, passed in 1955, granted the same 10-year tax exemption for the expansion of existing industries in Allegany County.

The third piece of legislation which has resulted in a reduction in the county's assessable basis was an act of 1957 which grants tax exemption to property owners above the age of 65 whose total income is less than $100 a month.

Mr. Nicholson mentioned the obvious fact to the county commissioners that so long as the cost of county government continues to rise it must be paid either by raising the tax rate or the assessable basis or both.

Church Notices For Christmas Due Dec. 16

All church news concerning services or programs on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day must be in the office of the Times-News not later than 1 p. m. Tuesday, December 16 in order to assure publication.

So as to avoid confusion news items and church notices should be marked "Christmas Services."

There is no change in deadline for church notices of Sunday, December 21. To be included on the regular Saturday page, they must be in the Times-News office no later than 11 p. m. Thursday, December 18.

Monday Is Deadline For Job Applicants

The deadline for returning applications for three city positions is Monday at 5 p. m., according to Wallace G. Ullery, secretary of the Civil Service Commission.

To date, nine applications have been taken out for the position of clerk-typist in the Water Department and three city workers have taken applications for a promotional examination for chief clerk in the Water Department.

The city has received a number of out-of-state inquiries about the tests planned for the post of assistant city engineer. The usual residence requirements are being waived for the engineering post.

ABL Works On Polaris Propellant

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and the Naval propellant plant at Indian Head are working on a double-base propellant for possible use in Polaris ballistic missiles.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall said he has been informed by the Navy Department that the new double-base propellant motor is being developed at ABL, which is operated for the Navy Bureau of Ordnance by the Hercules Powder Company of Wilmington, Del.

Senator Beall said it is expected that an architectural and engineering contract for the design of the required facilities will be awarded soon.

The Polaris is a Navy missile, designed for launching from submarines.

Ice Skating Area Planned

Ice skating may be available at Gephart Playground Thursday or Friday if the cold weather continues, the Recreation Department announced yesterday.

Eugene Mason, rec director, said the skating area at the playground is being flooded in stages in order to build up a solid base.

The Gephart Playground Association is cooperating with the Recreation Department in the ice skating program.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Lapp and their committee will be in charge of the refreshment stand and members of the association will help supervise the skating.

Players Plan Drama Program

The Algonquin Players will present a program on drama appreciation at a meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at City Hall auditorium. Mrs. Al Warahaft is in charge of the progrm, and the public is invited.

At a meeting of heads of standing committees Monday night at the home of Theos Angelus, president, the Players made plans for their next two productions.

"My Three Angels," a comedy originally scheduled for presentation this week at Carroll Hall, has been postponed until January, but the place has not been determined. Another play is planned for production in March.

The Players also are looking for a permanent location for plays and rehearsals, and will welcome suggestions.

Attending Monday's meeting were Robert Boniece, chairman of the by-laws committee; Judith Wilson, chairman of the membership committee; and Robert Mace, Ralph O. Barrick and Sidney Storer, directors.

Friends Aware Asks Workshop For Retarded

Program Outlined To County Delegates

A three-man steering committee for the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children last night asked the Allegany County delegation for aid in setting up a workshop for the mentally retarded on a county-wide basis.

The delegation, after hearing a digest of the need for establishing the workshop from John J. Long, president of the steering committee, suggested a definite program be worked out with the County Board of Commissioners before legislation is submitted by the delegation.

Mr. Long, Cumberland commissioner of streets and public property, pointed out that most workshops provide one of several vocational rehabilitation services. Most present workshops in the state reported their expenditures exceeded the funds available from various sources of revenue.

Would Serve Two Groups

He also stated the workshop would serve both the mentally retarded and the retarded with multiple handicaps. A study has shown that less than one per cent of those needing this service are now receiving it.

Two groups are served by the workshop, Mr. Long explained. They are those in the I.Q. range of 25-49, and those within the I.Q. range of 50-75.

It will be necessary to obtain building space to set up the workshop and to establish a light industrial type of assembly operation along with the use of power and hand tools, he said.

The workshop would then place its own graduates or share the responsibility with state employment services and vocational rehabilitation agencies so the trainees could support themselves.

The Friends Aware program now utilizes facilities under supervision of the County Board of Education with schools in LaVale, Westernport and Frostburg for retarded children.

Mr. Long told the delegation that approximately 50 children are in these classes and that there is need for a workshop for those who are now over 16 years of age and no longer eligible for training under the Board of Education program.

The steering committee said it feels that children should not be compelled to quit their training at the age of 16 when public schools continue to teach pupils 18, 19 and 20 years old.

Lack Of Funds

The biggest hurdle confronting the Friends Aware is the availability of funds to operate a workshop program, said Mr. Long.

State Senator Charles M. See suggested the steering committee meet with the county commissioners to map out a program which the delegation could then submit to the General Assembly, authorizing support of the workshop.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll said a definite program with the cooperation of the County Commissioners and the Department of Education would receive the full support of the delegation.

The delegation also suggested the FA committee obtain a survey of the number of persons to be helped by the workshop, the training and need for instructors, location of the workshop and its approximate cost to outline to the County Commissioners and the county delegation at a later date.

Members of the delegation then indicated they will talk over the workshop program with the County Commissioners at a meeting Friday evening at City Hall.

Attending the session last night besides Mr. Long, Senator See and Delegate Driscoll were Delegates William Walsh, Thomas Conlon Jr. and Estel C. Kelley, and David Hamilton and Charles Statler of the FA steering committee.

Gonder Clears Liquor Stand

Senator-elect Bernard I. Gonder Sr. of Garrett County last night said he wished to clarify the stand of the county delegation and the county commissioners on the legalized sale of liquor in the normally "dry" county.

The subject of the sale of whisky was brought up at a meeting of the delegation and commissioners with approximately 40 or 50 persons at the Court House in Oakland on Monday.

Sen. Gonder said last night that one member of the audience brought up the possibility of legislation to permit the sale of whisky in the county, but that the delegation and county commissioners made no comment on the matter.

The senator-elect explained that the county voted against the sale of liquor two years ago and that the present delegation doesn't even consider it an issue.

The meeting Monday was held primarily for the purpose of getting the public to state views on various subjects for the delegation's consideration. He said no action was taken on any of the matters under discussion.

State and county welfare problems were discussed here yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Welfare Board. Chatting as the meeting opened are John J. Rowan, left, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners; Thomas J. S. Waxter, chairman of the State Department of Public Welfare; Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the county welfare board; Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, and State Senator Charles M. See. Mr. Waxter asked county officials to back improvements in the programs for needy of the state.

Escapee From Jessup Sought In This Area

Edward Parsons Serving 18 Months

Edward Parsons, 24, of here, one of five prisoners who escaped yesterday from the Maryland House of Correction at Jessup, is believed to be in the Cumberland area.

Last night a man answering to his description was reported to have jumped from a car which had been stopped by Maryland State Police on U. S. Route 40 east of here. Prison clothes were found in the car, police said.

Police said the car had been stolen earlier in the evening at Hagerstown. The car was stopped by Trooper Harry Garcia who wanted to check on the driver's identity.

The man got out of the car and ran from the scene. Trooper Garcia was joined by other troopers in a search for him.

Shortly afterward, a car was reported stolen from the nearby Shrine Club.

Pry Window Open

Parsons, serving 18 months for unauthorized use of an auto, gained freedom from the institution yesterday when he and four other prisoners pried their way through a barred window and fled into a heavily-wooded area.

The other men were identified as Richard L. Spencer, 22, of Annapolis, six years for burglary; George W. Tyree, 30, of Baltimore, 10 years for robbery and carrying a deadly weapon; Raynold G. Lawlor, 32, Quebec, Canada, five years for burglary; and Donald C. Mohr, 30, of Baltimore, who escaped 11 years ago while serving a term at the State Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown. He was serving a 10-year sentence at the House of Correction for four burglaries.

Deputy Warden Joseph Deutsch said the men were not believed armed but they could be dangerous. He said the prisoners pried open a barred basement window with an iron pipe.

Search Called Off

They fled across a mile-wide open area. There were no trusties nearby and the House of Correction has no fence surrounding its prison buildings. The men, wearing blue denim uniforms, escaped into an area between Jessup and Dorsey near U. S. Route 1.

Guards took up the pursuit and a police dog from Fort George Meade was taken to the scene.

An intense manhunt through thick underbrush for the five fugitives was abandoned Tuesday night. A squad of 15 state troopers gave up at sundown and the search was replaced by a heavy patrol of roads in the area.

State police said they thought the men had either escaped the dragnet or were hiding in the woods, where they could not be seen at night.

Jobless Bill For Employers To Rise In '59

All Expected To Pay Maximum Rate

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's employment chief said Tuesday all employers in the state will be paying the maximum rate for unemployment insurance of their workers next year unless the 1959 Legislature enacts an emergency bill.

For some employers this would mean a 350 per cent increase over the rate they are now paying.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security, said department officials are preparing legislation to offer the General Assembly after it meets Jan. 7 in Annapolis.

State law provides for a fund from which unemployment insurance payments are made. Employers now feed this fund by paying from 0.6 to 2.7 per cent on the first $3,000 of each employe's annual wage.

How It Works

The less employe turnover in a business, the less employes of that business drain from the fund; so the operator of that business pays a lower percentage of his employes' salaries into the fund.

But, to make certain there is a reasonably safe amount in the fund to meet conditions of high unemployment, safeguards are set in the law to step up payments whenever the amount in the fund drops below certain marks. The law says the rate can run from 0.2 to 2.7 per cent, depending on an employer's personnel turnover and the amount in the fund. Because of the fund balance, however, the lowest being paid is 0.6 per cent.

But if the fund balance drops below 5 per cent of the taxable wage base, all employers are jumped to the 2.7 maximum, regardless of their personnel turnover.

Details To Be Worked Out

Kimble said the fund dropped from $115,853,000 last January to $82,368,000 last Oct. 1. The Oct 1 figure was only 4.95 per cent of the taxable wage base.

Details of legislation being prepared by Kimble and his advisers were still being worked out, a department spokesman said.

"But I feel reasonably safe in saying," Kimble was quoted, "that under this new plan most Marylanders will have a rate of less than 2 per cent."

He said the plan would preserve some of the advantages held by employers with lower personnel turnover, or experience rating, while protecting the solvency of the fund.

All fund payments are used for unemployment compensation. The money for the department's administrative and operating costs comes from the federal treasury.

County Is Asked To Back Boosts In Public Aid

Waxter Discusses Department Program

County legislators and officials yesterday were asked to support plans for a little better break for Maryland's needy.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, asked the Allegany County Commissioners and the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly to back the proposed legislative program of the department.

He said the department will ask the Legislature next year for the program which will cost slightly less than $3,000,000.

Mr. Waxter was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Allegany County Welfare Board, held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Guests included the Board of Allegany Commissioners, the Allegany County Delegation, State Senator Charles M. See and Juvenile Court Magistrate Fred H. Anderson.

Rates Are Compromise

J. William Hunt, chairman of the board, presided at the luncheon meeting. He pointed out the low standards under which present welfare recipients live and said the rate reflects a compromise between public needs and the pressure on the Legislature and County Commissioners against increased taxes.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the Welfare Board, was introduced by Mr. Hunt and was warmly praised by Mr. Waxter. She succeeded Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld several months ago.

Allegany County, Mr. Waxter said, is one of the high areas of dependency in Maryland with a dependency rate of 3.4 per cent in contrast to the state's 1.9 per cent.

But Allegany County's dependency, he added, has been going down steadily since 1950.

During November, he said, Allegany County had 578 persons on old age assistance. Two-thirds of the group, he said, were women with an average age of 73.

Assistance to the blind was provided for 23 residents of the county.

Help 336 Disabled

Aid was provided to 336 others who were totally disabled—most of them flat on their backs.

Help was also provided for about 400 dependent children.

No aid at all was available here, he said, for 103 disabled to the point they could not compete in today's labor market.

Maryland's relief load, Mr. Waxter reported, has gone down consistently since 1940.

He said the Department of Public Welfare will ask the 1959 Legislature to approve the following program:

Increased allowances for food to meet the increases in food costs and new food standards.

This would, he said, increase the food allowance for an elderly person on old age assistance from $21.50 to $31.50 a month.

For an old age assistance couple living in their own home the proposal would boost the monthly food allowance from $40 to $56.

The proposals, Mr. Waxter said, wuld boos the food allowances under aid to dependent children from $71.50 to $107.50 for a family composed of the mother, disabled father and three children.

Praises Delegation

At this point, he stressed that Senator See and the Allegany Delegation have backed the department's proposals 100 per cent in the Assembly.

Increases in allowances for foster care will also be asked, he said. At present, the home board rates for infants up to 12 is $35 and the department wants this

Sitters For Their Own Babies

For the second consecutive day, members of the Junior Woman's Civic Club were available for baby sitting service at the County Building on Union Street yesterday but not a single Christmas shopper brought her youngsters there to take advantage of the service. As a consequence, the only children they had to watch were their own. The three women, pictured left to right, are Mrs. Joseph Pellerzi, Mrs. K. O. Nelson and Mrs. E. L. Everhart. With them are Sandra Everhart and Beth Nelson. Club members hope there will be some response today for this new service offered at nominal cost. Proceeds will be used for CARE. The service is available from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each weekday and also 6 to 9 p. m. on Monday and Friday.

Luke Workers To Vote Today On Pact Offer

Report Meetings Are Well Attended

Reports on contract negotiations with West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company were presented to members of Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, yesterday.

Wilbur Johnson, Local 676 president, said about 815 of the local's 1,700 members attended the meetings held in the Welsh Theatre in Westernport.

A full report on the negotiations for a new contract at the Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., mills was presented by Harry Scott, area UPP director, and the negotiating committee. The negotiators included Charles Butler, first vice president; Edward Byron Green, second vice president; Leroy Imperio, third vice president, and Eldred Broadwater, recording secretary of the UPP.

Mr. Johnson said the negotiating committee made no recommendation, either way, on the Westvaco contract offer.

Members of the Luke local will hold a special election today by secret ballot for ratification or strike action.

Polls in the Devon Club, Luke, will be open today from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m., the negotiating committee reported.

Firemen To Meet With Delegation

The Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly will meet Thursday with the legislative committee of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, according to Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, chairman.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall and will be attended by the six newly elected delegates and State Senator Charles M. See.

Residential Red Lines To Be Erased

Most of the red and yellow lines painted on curbs in residential areas of the city will disappear under a policy announced by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

He said such lines, if unauthorized, will be painted black in accordance with a legal opinion requested of City Attorney William R. Carscaden.

The city attorney reported he had not checked all ordinances and orders on the subject and that, in his opinion, the City of Cumberland has no authority to place "red" or "yellow" lines in residential areas.

He added that the same rules and regulations apply to residential areas as in the business district and that curb parking regulations must be well marked so that all persons have reasonable notice of the regulations.

The ruling, he added, does not apply to fireplug areas, near street intersections and for bus stops.

The commissioner said the Police Department has been trying to eliminate special privileges under a policy of equal treatment for all.

Today Is Last For Applications

Today is the deadline for elderly property owners to apply for exemption on their 1959 Allegany County property taxes.

A measure introduced in 1957 by the late Delegate George F. S. Jeffrey allows exemption to all property owners above the age of 65 who live in the premises and have total income for husband and wife of less than $100 a month.

James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners, said yesterday that about 550 property owners have applied for this exemption. He will continue to accept applications until 4 p. m. today when the Court House closes. Mailed applications postmarked on or before midnight tonight also will be accepted.

Three Actions Cut Tax Basis By $17 Million

Nicholson Briefs New Commissioners

The new Allegany County Board of Commissioners held its first assessment hearing yesterday afternoon at the Court House and got a general briefing from Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, as to why Allegany County's assessable basis is about $158,000,000 instead of $175,000,000.

Three major pieces of tax exemption legislation enacted by the General Assembly in Annapolis and signed into law by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin have resulted in the exemption of about $17,000,000 in property from county real estate taxes.

The first of these measures, passed in 1951, for the purpose of encouragement and inducement of location, growth and development of new manufacturing, fabricating or assembling industries, factories and plants in Allegany County, granted exemption from all county and municipal taxation for a period of 10 years. It is Section 95 of the Public Local Laws of Allegany County.

Section 97 of the Public Local Laws, passed in 1955, granted the same 10-year tax exemption for the expansion of existing industries in Allegany County.

The third piece of legislation which has resulted in a reduction in the county's assessable basis was an act of 1957 which grants tax exemption to property owners above the age of 65 whose total income is less than $100 a month.

Mr. Nicholson mentioned the obvious fact to the county commissioners that so long as the cost of county government continues to rise it must be paid either by raising the tax rate or the assessable basis or both.

To date, nine applications have been taken out for the position of clerk-typist in the Water Department and three city workers have taken applications for a promotional examination for chief clerk in the Water Department.

ABL Works On Polaris Propellant

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and the Naval propellant plant at Indian Head are working on a double-base propellant for possible use in Polaris ballistic missiles.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall said he has been informed by the Navy Department that the new double-base propellant motor is being developed at ABL, which is operated for the Navy Bureau of Ordnance by the Hercules Powder Company of Wilmington, Del.

The Indian Head propellant plant is to develop capability for its production in pilot-line quantities. At present it is producing some of the propellant ingredients required by ABL in its development work.

Planning is now under way for modification of facilities at Indian Head for this pilot-line production.

Senator Beall said it is expected that an architectural and engineering contract for the design of the required facilities will be awarded soon.

The Polaris is a Navy missile, designed for launching from submarines.

Ice Skating Area Planned

Ice skating may be available at Gephart Playground Thursday or Friday if the cold weather continues, the Recreation Department announced yesterday.

Eugene Mason, rec director, said the skating area at the playground is being flooded in stages in order to build up a solid base.

The flooding began yesterday afternoon and will be continued until the ice is up to a satisfactory level.

The tennis court area of the playground is flooded each winter during extended cold spells.

The Gephart Playground Association is cooperating with the Recreation Department in the ice skating program.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Lapp and their committee will be in charge of the refreshment stand and members of the association will help supervise the skating.

At a meeting of heads of standing committees Monday night at the home of Theos Angelus, president, the Players made plans for their next two productions.

"My Three Angels," a comedy originally scheduled for presentation this week at Carroll Hall, has been postponed until January, but the place has not been determined. Another play is planned for production in March.

The Players also are looking for a permanent location for plays and rehearsals, and will welcome suggestions.

Attending Monday's meeting were Robert Boniece, chairman of the by-laws committee; Judith Wilson, chairman of the membership committee; and Robert Mace, Ralph O. Barrick and Sidney Storer, directors.

Friends Aware Asks Workshop For Retarded

Program Outlined To County Delegates

A three-man steering committee for the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children last night asked the Allegany County delegation for aid in setting up a workshop for the mentally retarded on a county-wide basis.

The delegation, after hearing a digest of the need for establishing the workshop from John J. Long, president of the steering committee, suggested a definite program be worked out with the County Board of Commissioners before legislation is submitted by the delegation.

Mr. Long, Cumberland commissioner of streets and public property, pointed out that most workshops provide one of several vocational rehabilitation services. Most present workshops in the state reported their expenditures exceeded the funds available from various sources of revenue.

Would Serve Two Groups

He also stated the workshop would serve both the mentally retarded and the retarded with multiple handicaps. A study has shown that less than one per cent of those needing this service are now receiving it.

Two groups are served by the workshop, Mr. Long explained. They are those in the I.Q. range of 25-49, and those within the I.Q. range of 50-75.

It will be necessary to obtain building space to set up the workshop and to establish a light industrial type of assembly operation along with the use of power and hand tools, he said.

The workshop would then place its own graduates or share the responsibility with state employment services and vocational rehabilitation agencies so the trainees could support themselves.

The Friends Aware program now utilizes facilities under supervision of the County Board of Education with schools in LaVale, Westernport and Frostburg for retarded children.

Mr. Long told the delegation that approximately 50 children are in these classes and that there is need for a workshop for those who are now over 16 years of age and no longer eligible for training under the Board of Education program.

The steering committee said it feels that children should not be compelled to quit their training at the age of 16 when public schools continue to teach pupils 18, 19 and 20 years old.

Lack Of Funds

The biggest hurdle confronting the Friends Aware is the availability of funds to operate a workshop program, said Mr. Long.

State Senator Charles M. See suggested the steering committee meet with the county commissioners to map out a program which the delegation could then submit to the General Assembly, authorizing support of the workshop.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll said a definite program with the cooperation of the County Commissioners and the Department of Education would receive the full support of the delegation.

The delegation also suggested the FA committee obtain a survey of the number of persons to be helped by the workshop, the training and need for instructors, location of the workshop and its approximate cost to outline to the County Commissioners and the county delegation at a later date.

Members of the delegation then indicated they will talk over the workshop program with the County Commissioners at a meeting Friday evening at City Hall.

Attending the session last night besides Mr. Long, Senator See and Delegate Driscoll were Delegates William Walsh, Thomas Conlon Jr. and Estel C. Kelley, and David Hamilton and Charles Statler of the FA steering committee.
